Malik, Jebb Tangle In Wordy Marathon

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The Security Council—still snarled up over procedure on the Korean question—wound up its second week of squabbling Friday, with Russia getting in the last word. The speech-making marathon resume Monday.

Lie Sees No Hope Of War Mediation

COPEHAGEN (CP)—Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary-general, today held out little hope for mediation of the Korean war.

En route to Oslo for a brief holiday, he said in an interview: "As far as I can see, there is no chance for any mediation proposals as regards Korea." Lie told reporters he did not believe the Korean fighting would develop into a global war. Earlier, at Prestwick, Scotland, he had said: "The Americans will hold their bridgehead in Korea." He could "not help much" in trying to solve the jam in the Security Council. "It is for the members themselves to find the way out of the deadlock. I cannot interfere."

Reds Bombed

Railway Strike Deadlock Holds

MONTREAL (CP)—With a country-wide strike against railways set for Aug. 22 there isn't a sign of a break in the deadlock between union and management. Meanwhile, the Railway Association of Canada informed the public that all services in Canada on the Canadian National Railways, Canadian Pacific Railway, Ontario Northland Railway, Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway and Naperville Junction may cease at 6 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 22.

J. A. Brass, general secretary of the Association, stated that all passenger, freight, express, inland and coastal shipping and ferry services of these railways, and their communications, will be brought to a standstill if the railway workers go on strike.

Mr. Brass said further that the Railway Association of Canada will keep shippers and the public informed by advance notice of embargoes on perishable and other traffic.

Latest development in the major labor fight was the rejection by union leaders representing 124,000 non-operating railway employees of an appeal by the presidents of Canada's two major railways.

Donald Gordon, president of the government-owned Canadian National Railways, and W. A. Mather, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, asked the union heads Friday to rescind the Aug. 22 strike call and "thus enable calm judgment to be exercised in regard to the situation as it now stands."

Frank H. Hall, chairman of the negotiating committee for 15 international unions, said the telegram from the presidents had been received and he was advising them "there is nothing more that can be done." A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor and head of the two Canadian unions involved in the wage-hour dispute, also rejected the appeal.

He announced Egypt's belief that North Korea was the aggressor in Korea. But he did not change Egypt's U.N. position although he is reported to have wanted to.

The government's statement that it is not pro-Russian gained further weight when Egypt cast her Security Council vote against admission of Communist China to the U.N.

Volunteers To Korea Brigade Number 6,500

3,260 Accepted, Some For Regular Forces

OTTAWA (CP)—More than 3,260 men out of some 6,500 volunteers have been accepted for service in the Canadian army since recruiting started, army headquarters announced today.

The figures covered enlistments and acceptances up to last night. They were for both the permanent army and for the special brigade. The army said that as yet it had no breakdown of the number for the two forces, but the great majority were signing up for the special brigade.

The enlistments Friday totaled 523. That was the number of men who signed on the dotted line and now are on their way to training camp. Besides there were 1,416 acceptances. That was the number accepted for service, but who asked for time to wind up their personal affairs before leaving for camp.

Hushed Crowds Near Home Of Elizabeth

LONDON (AP)—The simple notice, which will tell a waiting Commonwealth that Princess Elizabeth has given birth to her second child, has not yet been posted on the gate of Clarence House.

Hushed crowds are waiting outside the historic home of Elizabeth and her husband, Prince Philip, for the birth which a Buckingham Palace spokesman said "is expected any day."

The new baby will automatically be third in line for the Throne—after Elizabeth and her son, Prince Charles, who was born Nov. 14, 1948.

The Princess remains in excellent health, say court officials. She keeps up with her correspondence and until Wednesday took daily walks in the grounds of Clarence House.

Sir William Gilliat, the doctor who will deliver the baby, visited Elizabeth again today.

Both Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip are said to hope it's a girl.

GREAT BLAST AT AUCKLAND

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuters)—An empty 500,000-gallon gasoline tank blew up today on Auckland's waterfront, 50 yards from the 11,227-ton British liner Sussex and two other ships.

Five nearby tanks containing 2,000,000 gallons of fuel were not harmed. Two workmen were injured.

Fire started in the empty tank while workers were carrying out routine cleaning operations. Firemen had the blaze under control in 15 minutes.

Well-Digger Killed As Cable Snaps

Svend A. Iverson, R.R.I. Royal Oak, was killed this morning when a cable broke dropping a bucket of wet sand 60 feet down a well in which he was working near Elk Lake.

The bucket and sand, weighing about 350 pounds, struck the well-digger on the head and killed him instantly.

Mrs. Gerda A. Iverson, wife of the deceased, witnessed the accident. She was at the top of the 130-foot, cement lined well operating the lifting machines bringing the bucket to the surface.

Saanich police officer Robert Adrian, who rushed to the scene with Dr. Jack Patterson, recovered the body from the well. Iverson was about 45 years of age.

Miss M. Gildea, Principal, Strathcona School, Dies

Miss Minna Gildea, for many years headmistress of Strathcona Lodge School for Girls at Shawanigan Lake, died suddenly Friday at Onward Ranch, Cariboo, where she was visiting Mrs. C. G. Gowan, formerly of Victoria.

Miss Gildea, who was born in England, was a woman of high scholastic attainments and dynamic personality, coupled with an unusual gift of understanding, and under her brilliant leadership Strathcona Lodge became one of the most famous girls' schools on this continent, attracting students from all parts.

Prior to World War Two, many of her pupils came from the Orient and some of them remained with her throughout the war, when circumstances prevented their rejoining their parents.

Miss Gildea, who was one of nine children of Canon W. Gildea of Salisbury, England, was trained for teaching at Cheltenham Ladies' College. In the First World War she was secretary of the Women's Land Army and after the armistice was chosen one of the first organizers in the women's institute movement in England.

Poor health had troubled Miss Gildea for some time and a few years ago she retired to England, but so sadly was she missed that at the insistence of students,

Vital Airbase Nearby Still Used By Yanks

TOKYO (AP)—The North Koreans poured heavy reinforcements across the Nakdong River Saturday on the central front of the Korean battle line.

A communique from Gen. MacArthur's headquarters early today (Sunday) said a North Korean prisoner of war reported that three regiments of the Red 4th Division had streamed across the river in the Changnyong and Waegwan sectors—in the middle of the central front.

To meet the mounting Red threat, units of the U.S. 25th Division rolled northward from the southern front.

Two Communist roadblocks near Miryang, 16 miles east of Changnyong, hampered American vehicle and wire communication, the communique said.

The battle for Pohang, eastern anchor of the Allied line, was quieter Saturday night. Allied forces still held the vital airfield six miles southeast of the port town and American planes were using it.

Far to the north, B-29s from Okinawa and Japan plastered Najin, North Korean port city only 17 miles from Russian territory. Striking through clouds, they dropped 500 pounds of bombs by radar.

Pohang itself appeared to be half in Red hands and half a flaming "no-man's" land. Correspondent Leif Erickson reported from Eighth Army headquarters that American officers were confident of holding the airfield and recapturing Pohang.

Max Desfor, Associated Press photographer, reported from Pohang that American tanks led a South Korean patrol into the centre of the city without drawing serious fire. A few enemy troops quickly disappeared, Desfor said. He reported there was no Communist fire hitting the airstrip.

United Nations warships stood by in Pohang Bay today to help defend the airport.

Commonwealth occupation force headquarters in Tokyo stated that Australian Mustang aircraft gave "a dazzling display of marksmanship" to knock out three Communist tanks and damage a fourth in a sortie near Waegwan.

Aussie Planes Strafe Enemy

The Australians also strafed enemy troops concealed in an orchard and rocketed and strafed enemy troops in the Yongdok area of the northeast front.

Along the Nakdong River line 50 miles west, Allied forces hurled back two new Red thrusts across the Nakdong River in the Waegwan area near Taegu.

In the Changnyong area to the south, the Reds set up a road block between Yongsang, eight miles south of Changnyong, and Miryang, 16 miles to the east. This was considerably south of the 24th Division's position.

Erickson said the evident purpose was to drive against the 27th from the east while it was fighting a frontal attack along the Nakdong.

Col. John (Mike) Michaelis, who commanded the main task force in the drive toward Chinju, led the reinforcements northward.

The 24th Division Friday whittled down the bridgehead and gained more than a mile along the three-mile front in an attack that carried one Yank column to the river.

Farther north, troops of the 1st Cavalry Division, bayonets flashing, thrust back an attempted river crossing at Kaepo.

A.P. correspondent Lief Erickson said the Reds in "battalion strength" crossed the river in darkness and tried to set up a foothold beneath close-range supporting artillery fire. Of this force, 150 were killed and the others thrown back by late afternoon.

First Cavalry headquarters said the North Koreans crossed at a wrecked bridge near Tuskong.

A part of the Communist force infiltrated American lines and took up positions behind the U.S. troops. Then other Red infantry launched a frontal attack and the 1st Cavalry met it with bayonets. The Red force in rear came out of hiding simultaneously.

Other elements of the American division went in to protect the rear. Both Red forces were routed and as they ran back toward the river American artillery bombarded the bridge.

The Reds threw a heavier force across the river at the same time about five miles north of Waegwan. A battalion of troops led by 10 tanks reached the east bank and hit the 1st South Korean division.

Erickson said five of 10 tanks in action were knocked out Saturday morning and the drive was stopped. But he said the other five tanks still roam the east bank.

A headquarters spokesman said reports received at midnight Friday were that this thrust too had been hurled back across the river.

One of MacArthur's intelligence officers said the persistent stubbornness of Red troops fighting near Changnyong indicated they expected reinforcements. He speculated they might be waiting for help from the 9th and 14th North Korean divisions believed to be between Taejon and Waegwan.

If brought into action, these would swell the Communist force to six and perhaps seven divisions—between 60,000 and 70,000 men—along a 50-mile front aimed at Taegu.

This remains the "power potential" of a drive toward Taegu, the spokesman said.

New Police Head Arrives On Coast

The man who will command British Columbia's New Royal Canadian Mounted Police set-up has arrived in Vancouver.

Assistant Commissioner A. T. Belcher will head the R.C.M.P. when it becomes the provincial police agency next Tuesday.

He arrived in Vancouver Friday night by plane from Edmonton and will probably travel to Victoria this week-end.

Deeper Than Height Of City's Tallest Building

Constable Hero
In Saanich DeathWell-Digger Killed
By Plunging Bucket

By JIM McKEACHIE

Heroic story of efforts of a Saanich police constable to save the life of a man at the bottom of a 130-foot deep cement-lined well ended tragically today.

The voice of Const. Robert Adrian, a former hardrock miner in northern Ontario, echoed up the long, three-foot diameter shaft around 9 o'clock to inform waiting colleagues that Svend A. Iverson was dead.

Iverson, aged about 45, a well digger who lived on his seven-acre farm on East Saanich Road, a mile north of Elk Lake, was killed instantly when a 350-pound bucket of wet sand plummeted 60 feet and crushed the top of his skull.

Wife of the deceased, Mrs. Gerda Amanda Iverson, was operating a power winch at the top of the partially-completed well when the three-eighths-inch cable raising the bucket to the surface snapped.

FATE UNCERTAIN

When Saanich firemen from the Elk Lake hall arrived with an inhalator, it was not known whether Iverson was dead or alive.

Fireman D. Simpson was lowered part way down the dark shaft by Capt. T. Moss and Fireman W. Holmes, but had to be brought up. He showed the effects of the brief experience.

When Saanich police arrived, Const. Adrian volunteered to go down. He was lowered by ropes borrowed from Hafer Bros., Saanichton.

On the sandy bottom of the well, just two feet above water level, the flashlight carried by the short, dark constable showed Iverson doubled over. The bucket was lying beside him.

Const. Adrian fastened a safety belt around the body, then signalled by voice and with his flashlight, and was raised to the surface. Iverson's remains were brought up last.

STILL SHAKY

Still shaky after his experience the police officer said his back and elbows were scratched up from bouncing around the cement walls of the shaft.

"Fortunately, claustrophobia doesn't bother me, but going down a hole you do not know is no fun. It's different going down a mine you know every day," he said.

"That well isn't perfectly

Mayor Favors Screening Of City Workers

Possibility that security measures including screening of Victoria's 700 civic workers might be undertaken was seen today by Mayor Percy George.

He was asked to comment on a Vancouver report that the mainland city would take such a move aimed at eliminating all leftist supporters from the city's labor force, with the first step possibly being an order for civic employees to take oaths of allegiance.

"There are no such plans here along that line whatsoever," His Worship said. "Such a thing would be up to the council."

"The matter has not been considered officially here but it may be taken under advisement," he said, admitting such a move was "in the realms of possibility."

Mrs. Aldous sought police help Friday in finding her husband. She said he had telephoned her at noon Wednesday that he would see her in 10 minutes, but failed to return.

Half Victoria
Boost Prices

Paint is the most recent commodity to go up in price.

Some manufacturers introduced new price schedules this week while others have notified dealers changes will be made next week.

Increases range from 5 to 10 per cent on paints, enamels and varnishes. Actual jump on a gallon of paint is between 25 and 50 cents, depending on quality.

A check of city paint dealers showed about half the stores with the revised prices already in effect and the remainder ready to make the increase next week.

Dealers hold increased cost of paint ingredients responsible for the jump. The increased cost of ingredients, in turn, is blamed on shortages.

One paint wholesaler reported titanium, a principal ingredient in paint-making, almost impossible to obtain at the present time.

Power Failure
Affects 150,000

BIDDEFORD, Me. (AP)—The lights went out in southern Maine Friday night as a power failure darkened 60 cities and towns.

Some 150,000 persons were without electricity for periods ranging from five minutes to an hour. The breakdown covered an area of 1,100 square miles in York, Cumberland and Oxford counties.

Central Maine Power Company officials said a switch breakdown on a Biddeford high voltage line caused a short circuit.

Cab Driver
Snatches Man
From Death

VANCOUVER (CP)—A suicide leap from a bridge over the Fraser River was foiled by an alert taxi driver, who pulled his death-bent fare to safety as he was poised for a 200-foot leap into the First Narrows.

The cab driver, Earl Bale, told police the 23-year-old fare hired his cab to take him to West Vancouver. As the car Friday night was moving slowly over the middle of the lofty span, Bale said his passenger sprang from the auto and clambered up the protective railing.

Bale braked to a stop, chased the man and hauled him to safety—keeping a grip on him until police arrived.

Police did not disclose the man's identity, but held him for questioning.

Shipping Space Shortage
Threat To Coal Orders

Hopes an extensive market in Japan for B.C. coal as a result of the Korean war are not looking bright.

Lack of shipping space is the reason.

The Far Eastern war is proving a stimulus for B.C. industry in some respects, but Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd. fear the scarcity of freighters may mean the loss of a $1,500,000 coal contract with Japan.

The coal company has been bidding on a 100,000-ton order for Japanese steel mills which would be a boon to mines in Alberta as well as Vancouver Island.

But freighters on this coast are not as plentiful as they were because of heavy demands made by the Korean war.

There is a surplus of shipping on the Atlantic coast, though, and the Dunsmuir collieries people say that coal from the east coast may be bought in preference as a result.

A provincial Department of Trade and Industry official said it was hoped ways and means could be found to meet the east coast competition in the coal shipping question, but no plan was advanced.

B.C. mines have received Japanese coal contracts before, but not in the last two years. Meanwhile, at least one war contract with Japan has been signed in the province—the Vancouver-Seattle A. and C. Development Co. for shipment of 1,000,000 tons of iron ore from long-abandoned holdings on Texada Island.

The company plans on the first shipment being made within four months. And it is the hope of the firm that the contract, to require about 11 freighters, will be the forerunner of a long-term contract involving a freighter-load of ore a week to Japan.

Sept. 21 Or 28
Likely Dates
For Commons

OTTAWA (CP)—Speculation is rife on the probable opening date and duration of the session of Parliament being called to authorize the recruitment of Canadian forces for use by the United Nations in Korea or elsewhere. Prime Minister St. Laurent has said the session will be called within the next six or seven weeks. Some members of the Commons believe it will be called for either Sept. 21 or 28. Others pick Oct. 5. The dates fall on Thursdays, the usual day for the opening of a session.

Guesses on the probable duration of the session range from 12 or 14 days to three months.

The government possibly will study the procedure followed at the special session called in 1939 which sent Canada into the Second World War and dealt with special war legislation. The 1939 session opened Sept. 7 and was prorogued Sept. 13.

ONE WOMAN'S DAY

By NANCY HODGES

CASSANDRA RIDES AGAIN

WHEN I WAS last in Washington, D.C., several years ago, the U.S. capital was agog over the appearance in the gallery of the House of Representatives of a strange apparition, a female figure veiled from head to foot in a violet veil over a purple toga-like garment, who shouted dire prophecies at the legislators below.

This modern replica of Cassandra, the Greek goddess of doom, turned out to be a woman named Margaret Andra Russell, said to be a Vassar graduate. Claiming to represent the Guardians of the Flame, a supposed nationalist movement of America for the Americans, she warned the astonished members that "American democracy must be reborn and revitalized."

CHARIOT AND CHARIOTEER

A FEW DAYS later she appeared at the Lincoln and Jefferson memorials, arriving there in a chariot drawn by two horses, and attended by a male attendant, who wore a short white Roman tunic and toga adorned with the Greek key pattern, an ancient Roman helmet and sandals.

There "Cassandra" harangued the crowd which quickly gathered, reading from a vellum scroll a poem which criticized both major political parties as "corrupt" and warned Americans that they were in grave danger owing to political "ism."

RETURN ENGAGEMENT

ALTHOUGH I did not happen to catch a glimpse of this strange woman during my brief stay, I heard so much about her weird appearance and gloomy predictions that I was rather amused and interested to learn the other day that recent events have brought her back again into the Washington line.

According to a recent item in the Washington Post, Miss Russell suddenly turned up in the gallery of the U.S. Senate, on a stickily hot day, garbed in metallic robes and veiled from head to foot in grey, and startled the perspiring senators by shouting that she "was a phantom from the past come to warn you that a fraud is being perpetrated against humanity."

HUSTLED OUT

BEFORE SHE HAD time to explain just what the fraud was and who was perpetrating it, she was hustled out by Senate attendants and taken off to a mental hospital for observation.

However, the psychiatrists and psychologists adjudged her sane enough, so a few days later she turned up at the capitol police headquarters to ask permission to resume operations on Capitol Hill.

ONLY A POET

IT WAS THEN that, while refusing to remove her veil so that the chief of police could see her face, she declared: "I am not a woman—I am a phantom. No one is allowed to see my face." Adding, as if to explain why: "I am a poet. . . . The poet in every man is being crushed by this supercolossal machine of industrialization. . . . These intolerable bonds are crushing out all dynamism and imaginative action in American life."

Miss Russell evidently did not have much success in selling the imaginative life to such difficult customers as the police, but it is hardly to be wondered at.

TRY, TRY AGAIN

FOR THIS LATEST visitation is the third on which she has made her bizarre effort to convert hard-headed police and politicians to her way of thinking. The first time was in 1941, when she was ousted from the House galleries for yelling: "The victory will be mine," during the lend-lease debate. She announced she was crusading against war.

At that time her crusading costume consisted of a black robe of the same toga-like type, plus a death's head mask covering her face. I don't know if such bizarre attire and actions help to publicize her poetry or not, but from what I know of people, police and politicians, it will take more than poetry, prophecies and queer raiment to outlaw war—in our time, at least.

Lawyer Asks Reason For Continuing Wife's Case

An application requesting Magistrate H. C. Hall to show cause why a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident against his wife should not be dismissed, was filed in Supreme Court by E. L. Tait, lawyer, Friday.

The application was filed as the result of the refusal of the magistrate to withdraw or dismiss a traffic charge against Mrs. May F. Tait, Hibbens Close, Cadboro Bay. The charge was laid against Mrs. Tait following a collision between young cyclist Donald Banister, son of Sgt. T. Banister of the city police, and Mrs. Tait's parked car.

Mr. Tait, in his application, claimed that the magistrate had "failed to hear and consider the allegations of the complainant" and in consequence he was without jurisdiction to issue the summons.

He also alleges the charge was fanciful and could not be supported by the facts, and was an abuse of the processes of the court.

Stating that the charge was libellous, Mr. Tait also said it was causing damage to the character of the accused.

Mr. Tait claimed that the police should have made an investigation before laying a charge against his wife. He pointed out that the boy ran into the rear of the parked car and was not injured.

Mr. Tait further alleges that his wife asked the boy if he were injured and that he shook his head.

Lions Study Plan For Group Here To Aid Borstal

Following an address by S. R. Smith to members of the Lions Club Friday, George Thackray, club president, said his group would give serious consideration to the possibility of forming a branch of the Borstal Association here.

Mr. Smith, head of New Haven, a Borstal home in Burnaby, B.C., said members of the Borstal Association were voluntary workers who extended the helping hand of friendship to young men leaving the home. There are 12 association branches in B.C.

At New Haven, training and treatment of young offenders—boys and girls in their late teens or early twenties—were designed to fit the need of each individual, Mr. Smith said.

During the day, boys receive training in various trades from which they are able to earn small amounts of money. In the evenings, educational and recreational programs are conducted.

It was during the first few months after release from the home that the offenders required a helping and understanding hand, he said. This was the task of the Borstal Association members.

Still Holding Hamilton Responsible For Roof

Arena Committee Awaits Joint Report For Recommendation To City Council Tuesday

The arena committee is still holding Charles T. Hamilton, consulting engineer, responsible for the leaks in the roof of the Memorial Arena, Ald. Frank G. Mulliner, chairman, said today.

"We are not backing down on that," he added. "We are expecting a joint report from Mr. Hamilton and Pacific Sheet Metal Works, the company which applied the roof coating Monday."

On the basis of that report, the committee will take a recommendation to City Council meeting Tuesday, the chairman said.

Ald. Mulliner and Ald. Hilda Baxter of the arena committee held closed-to-the-press meetings Friday morning and afternoon with Mr. Hamilton, G. McClure of Sheet Metal Works and A. J. Patton, city solicitor.

"We are trying to co-operate with all parties concerned to get the job done, which must be done quickly," Ald. Mulliner said.

Firemen Don Masks To Put Out Blaze

Smoke was so thick that Oak Bay firemen had to don masks to put out a fire of undetermined origin which caused damage to the rumpus room and furniture at the home of Gordon B. Paterson, 3565 Beach Drive, Friday.

It took one hour to put out the fire. Only occupants in the house at the time of the blaze were Mrs. Paterson and Chinese houseboy.

Weather Ship Prepared For Pacific Post

HALIFAX (CP) — Canada's newest weather ship, the wartime frigate St. Catharines, will leave Halifax for the west coast in about six weeks. The ship arrived here recently from Sorel, Que., where alterations were made to equip her for duty in Pacific waters.

St. Catharines wartime silhouette has been considerably altered. Her forecastle now is made up of two-room cabins for Department of Transport men who will operate the ship. The wartime gun-housing aft has been replaced by a meteorologist's cabin, containing facilities for inflating and controlling balloons used for upper atmosphere readings.

At the stern, an open deck used for storing depth charges has been closed in and made into a lounge room.

The former frigate, which joined the navy in 1944, will be commanded by a former navy man, Capt. J. P. Sleight, who served in her in wartime.

Newfoundland Fire Controlled

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — A forest fire raging in the Burin Peninsula in southern Newfoundland since Monday, which Friday threatened the hamlet of Winterland, is under control, fire warden Harold Smith reported today from the fire area.

The fire is burning in low scrub and second-growth three miles from Winterland, where Friday the 100 residents packed their belongings and prepared to beat a hasty retreat. Sunny weather is not helping the fire fighters and the warden said only rain could extinguish the forest blaze.

Drill Team Largest On Continent

Since its inception 13 years ago, the "Victoria Girls' Drill Team" had seen 400 girls pass through its ranks, Geoffrey I. Edgelow, head of the tourist trade group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce said Friday night.

He was addressing the 13th annual banquet of the team, which is sponsored by the tourist trade group.

With a present strength of 81 members, the team was the largest girls' drill team in North America, Mr. Edgelow said.

The province had saved thousands of dollars through the publicity brought to B.C. by the team, Deputy Minister of Trade and Industry E. G. Rowebottom said.

Other speakers were Ald. Harold Diggon and Councillor J. V. Johnson of Oak Bay.

Mrs. R. P. Butchart, one of the original patrons and honorary colonel of the team, was an honor guest.

Numerous other civic officials and city businessmen were also on hand.

Atomic Papers Thief Suspect Slashes Wrist

LONDON (Reuter) — William Ralph Wakeham, 35, accused of stealing a British atomic energy official's suitcase and briefcase, slashed his wrists in his London prison cell today.

The suitcase was reported to contain secret atom papers, since recovered.

It was reported lost by Frank Greenlees, an official of the Ministry of Supply, which controls atomic development. He was on his way to an atomic research station in the north of England when it was taken.

Greenlees left the case in a corner of his railway carriage seat while he walked along the car. When he returned three minutes later his luggage had gone.

Police said at the time there was no suspicion of espionage.

Wakeham, due to appear in court later today, was taken to hospital, where his condition was said to be "not serious."

Demand For Homes Increasing Again

Biggest Call For Older Houses With Low Down Payment

The real estate market, which slipped earlier in the summer, is beginning to show signs of becoming firm again, according to a number of Victoria agents questioned today.

Some said business had noticeably picked up in the last three weeks. Others reported increased interest in homes and property.

Dealers differed on the question of how Korean war news had affected business.

"The war has brought more inquiries for homes," said one agent.

Another agent said: "The war news has slowed things right down. People don't feel like doing anything. There's too much uncertainty. Some people say they won't buy a house because if there's a war, this place will be bombed."

Still another dealer reported, "The Korean trouble put a scare in things, but the market is coming up a bit now."

There is still a demand for low down-payment houses, it was generally agreed.

A comfortable home for which the owner is willing to accept an initial payment of $1,000 or $1,500 will sell when others won't. Houses about 10 years old are still popular, too.

File Jammed In Boiler Of British Carrier

LONDON (AP)—A metal file has been found jammed in a boiler tube of the 23,000-ton aircraft carrier Illustrator, but there was no damage, an Admiralty spokesman said today.

It was believed that a careless workman was responsible, but routine investigations are continuing, he said.

The warship is undergoing repairs at Devonport.

This is the third time this year that naval intelligence has been called on to investigate incidents on the carrier. Once signal flares were found in the boiler room and another time water was discovered in the supply of aviation gasoline.

There have been other recent cases of damage to warships. Loose bolts were found strewn in the gearbox of the destroyer Cavendish and sand was found in the bearings of the submarine Tallyho while she was being refitted at Devonport.

EMPLOYMENT IN CITY AT PEAK

Employment in Victoria is now at its highest peak, it was indicated in the report of C. A. Mudge, manager of the National Employment Service office here.

Few people applied for unemployment insurance benefits during the past week, he said. Job openings were quickly filled, but there was still a demand for plasterers and plumbers.

Mr. Mudge said in the female division there was still a demand for experienced waitresses for shift work and experienced, single stenographers.

Miss M. Gildea, Principal, Strathcona School, Dies

Miss Minna Gildea, for many years headmistress of Strathcona Lodge School for Girls at Shawinigan Lake, died suddenly Friday at Onward Ranch, Carleton Place, where she was visiting Mrs. C. G. Gowan, formerly of Victoria.

Miss Gildea, who was born in England, was a woman of high scholastic attainments and dynamic personality, coupled with an unusual gift of understanding, and under her brilliant leadership Strathcona Lodge became one of the most famous girls' schools on this continent, attracting students from all parts.

Prior to World War Two, many of her pupils came from the Orient and some of them remained with her throughout the war, when circumstances prevented their rejoining their parents.

Miss Gildea, who was one of nine children of Canon W. Gildea of Salisbury, England, was trained for teaching at Cheltenham Ladies' College. In the First World War she was secretary of the Women's Land Army and after the armistice was chosen one of the first organizers in the women's institute movement in England.

Poor health had troubled Miss Gildea for some time and a few years ago she retired to England, but so sadly she missed that at the insistence of students, staff and parents, she returned again to take over the principalship of Strathcona.

Her passing will come as a shock and bring a deep sense of personal loss not only to those now associated with the school, but to hundreds of "Old Girls" scattered all over the world. Funeral services will be held Wednesday afternoon at 2 from the Shawinigan Lake Boys' School Chapel. Bishop Harold Sexton will officiate. Interment will be at St. John's Churchyard, Cobble Hill, V.I.

GREAT BLAST AT AUCKLAND

AUCKLAND, N.Z. (Reuter)—An empty 500,000-gallon gasoline tank blew up today on Auckland's waterfront, 50 yards from the 11,227-ton British liner Sussex and two other ships. Five nearby tanks containing 2,000,000 gallons of fuel were not harmed. Two workmen were injured.

Fire started in the empty tank while workers were carrying out routine cleaning operations. Firemen had the blaze under control in 15 minutes.

Belief Gains Farouk Vetoed Aid For Korea

Stanley Swinton, former Associated Press chief of bureau in Cairo, filed the following dispatch on his arrival in Tokyo by air from Egypt. He had been unable to file the story because of censorship in Egypt.

By STANLEY SWINTON

TOKYO (AP)—There is a widespread but unconfirmed belief among many well-placed Egyptians that Egypt's decision not to help the United Nations in Korea resulted from the direct command of King Farouk.

These sources say the monarch's prime reason was his peeve over U.S. press criticism of his private life.

Even so, the decision is reported to have come only after a bitter secret cabinet session during which five ministers supported the U.N. Korean policy if only on moral grounds. Prime Minister Nahas Pasha led the 10-minister majority which supported a policy of abstaining from all U.N. voting on Korea.

This was followed by an interpretation in some quarters that the action was a signal for a pro-Russian campaign in Egypt. The Foreign Minister, Salah Eddin Bey, put an official damper on this, however, at two press conferences.

He announced Egypt's belief that North Korea was the aggressor in Korea. But he did not change Egypt's U.N. position although he is reported to have wanted to.

The government's statement that it is not pro-Russian gained further weight when Egypt cast her Security Council vote against admission of Communist China to the U.N.

Wrangle In U.N. To Continue Monday

Malik's Manoeuvring Gives Him Last Word Before Adjournment

LAKE SUCCESS (AP)—The Security Council—still snarled up over procedure on the Korean question—wound up its second week of squabbling Friday, with Russia getting in the last word. The speech-making marathon will be resumed Monday.

Jakob Malik, as President, gave himself the floor Friday, as Russia's delegate, to attack the United States in a speech designed to close out the council business for the week-end without danger of an immediate reply.

It followed a statement of Sir Gladwyn Jebb, chief British delegate, that Communist imperialism wants to swallow up all Asia and must be stopped.

The non-Communist group campaign of trying to out-talk

Malik was carried on by Jebb after the council failed to get Malik to make a ruling on seating the South Korean representative at the council table.

Malik tried vainly to make the council submit to him by voting on his proposal to seat both North and South Korean representatives—and Red China—before the council can consider anything further on the Korean question.

Jebb said that "repulsed in Europe, it is now clear that the dark forces of Communist imperialism are concentrating for the kill in Asia."

He termed Malik's claim that the fighting in Korea is only civil war "patent nonsense."

Malik charged the U.S. built up the South Korean army to invade North Korea, gave it supplies, and provoked an attack with guarantees from Gen. MacArthur that the South Koreans would get help from him.

He called Austin's charges that Russia provided the North Koreans with their armament "unfounded dirty slanders."

Malik charged that all Security Council actions taken in his absence on the Korean conflict were illegal and that other members of the council were "guilty" to accept the crude falsifications of the U.S. a legend for simpletons on how the North Koreans invaded.

CALGARY (CP)—Alberta Hall Board officials today estimated the area hit by hail in the province this year at somewhere between 250,000 and 300,000 acres. A detailed check will be made later.

Lie Sees No Hope Of War Mediation

COPEHAGEN (CP)—Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary-general, today held out little hope for mediation of the Korean war.

En route to Oslo for a brief holiday, he said in an interview: "As far as I can see, there is no chance for any mediation proposals as regards Korea."

Lie told reporters he did not believe the Korean fighting would develop into a global war. Earlier, at Prestwick, Scotland, he had said: "The Americans will hold their bridgehead in Korea."

He could "not help much" in trying to solve the jam in the Security Council. "It is for the members themselves to find the way out of the deadlock. I cannot interfere."

12,000 See Plane Pilot Killed

No Indication Of Break In Rail Strike Deadlock

MONTREAL (CP)—With a country-wide strike against railways set for Aug. 22 there isn't a sign of a break in the deadlock between union and management.

Meanwhile, the Railway Association of Canada informed the public that all services in Canada on the Canadian National Railway, Ontario Northland Railway, Toronto, Hamilton and Buffalo Railway and Napierville Junction may cease at 6 a.m. Tuesday, Aug. 22.

J. A. Brass, general secretary of the Association, stated that all passenger, freight, express, inland and coastal shipping and ferry services of these railways, and their communications, will be brought to a standstill if the railway workers go on strike.

Mr. Brass said further that the Railway Association of Canada will keep shippers and the public informed by advance notice of embargoes on perishable and other traffic.

Latest development in the major labor fight was the rejection by union leaders representing 124,000 non-operating railway employees of an appeal by the presidents of Canada's two major railways.

Donald Gordon, president of the government-owned Canadian National Railway, and W. A. Mather, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, asked the union heads Friday to rescind the Aug. 22 strike call and "thus enable calm judgment to be exercised in regard to the situation as it now stands."

Crude Treatment

IN THESE COLUMNS SEVEN DAYS ago we discussed the prospective transference of the British Columbia Police Force to the jurisdiction of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. We said in part:

"Attorney-General Wismer informs us that the agreement drawn up by the Dominion government and submitted to the government of this province is, for the time being, a tentative one. Obviously, it constitutes the background for the legalization of the general plan submitted to and approved by the elected representatives of the people at the session of the Legislature earlier this year."

Six days later the Attorney-General announced that the agreement had been signed and that certain officers of the British Columbia Police Force would be retired immediately. Among these officers is Commissioner Roger Peachey who, as recently as March 1 of this year, was appointed to the post he is now required to relinquish. His age is 57. He has served the provincial force with ability and unstinted devotion for 30 years. One of his gifts to the fight against Hohenzollernism in the First Great War was a leg. His gift to the province of his adoption since then has been loyal service.

This newspaper objects strenuously to the nullification of information given to it by the first law officer of the Crown in this province. We say that, because only six days were allowed to elapse after Mr. Wismer had assured us that no agreement, in proper form, had been received or considered—that, as already stated, the proposal under review was a tentative one.

On Wednesday of this week, however, the public learned that capable and faithful members of the British Columbia Police Force had been given their marching orders by way of a mimeographed letter. Apart altogether from the economies that are expected to be effected by the measure passed at the last session of the Legislature—and they are considerable ones viewed in their fundamental economic perspective—this method of removing faithful civil servants from their jobs will be considered by all those who cherish the decencies of life—particularly of public life—as the acme of bad manners.

In view of these circumstances, and because of the able services rendered by those who are forced into retirement at the top of their efficiency, we urge the Attorney-General, in collaboration with the Premier and his ministerial colleagues, to train a stronger magnifying glass on the situation than apparently has been used. Men like Peachey should be retained for the valuable contribution they can make to the policing of this great province of British Columbia under the jurisdiction of a national organization whose reputation needs no eulogy here.

Are They Asking For A 'Crackdown'?

VICTORIA'S NEW BY-LAW GIVING pedestrians the right of way in crosswalks has been in force for approximately two weeks. Up to yesterday, no convictions had been recorded against motorists who have violated the regulation. Three cases are pending.

It is the hope of the police traffic division that it will be unnecessary to institute a "crackdown." Members of that branch wish to educate the motoring public to the courtesy which the by-law now stipulates as a matter of law. At the same time, it is apparent to anyone who watches traffic on our streets for a few minutes that the by-law is not being observed as it should be. Motorists, in some cases, still try to blow pedestrians off intersections with loud notes from their car horns. When some drivers stop, according to regulations, others ignore the rule which states they must not pass around cars brought to a standstill for the specific purpose of letting a pedestrian cross.

The attitude of the traffic branch has been commendable. It is more interested, in this instance, in educating the motorist in a particular field of safe driving than it is in collecting fines for infractions. Obviously, however, leniency cannot be extended to offenders indefinitely. The smart and proper thing for motorists to do is to observe the law. If they do not, an official "crackdown" appears inevitable.

Keep The Machine In Good Shape

THE ROYAL BANK OF CANADA HAS given a new and highly personal twist to "global thinking" in its current monthly news letter. The bank is not dealing with the political affairs of a troubled world. It is considering the seriousness of that hemisphere which develops all too often after middle life between a man's chest and his knees.

What the bank advocates is a little greater care on matters of diet. It contends that 90 per cent of all so-called stomach trouble is due to a misunderstanding between the stomach and its owner. To that it adds: "The expenditure of a little thought can bring about friendly understanding and will mean a great deal in increasing resistance to disease and enhancing the joy of living."

Discussions on the relationship between food and physical wellbeing are not as frivolous as some people consider them. What the bank letter says so deftly should command attention—the individual attention that virtually every person in Canada can give to the matter of healthful intake. Physical fitness is important at all times. It becomes increasingly so under stress. As Canadians make their preparations for eventualities which may arise, one of their steps should be to see that their own physical machinery is in first-class working order. What they do at the dinner table is a factor that should not be ignored.

Vienna's Fabled Coffee Houses Feel Competition Of Ice Cream

By ERIC GEDYE, from Vienna
London Observer Foreign News Service

THE news that the most characteristic of all Viennese institutions, the cafe, is in distress will stir a sympathetic echo in the hearts of the millions in other countries who know and love the Austrian capital.

Nearly 70 per cent of Vienna's 1,092 coffee houses—the cafe in Vienna, usually called Kaffeehaus, is much nearer the old English institution of the "coffee house" than the modern cafe—are being run without profit. This was stated at a recent general meeting of the Vienna cafe owners' association.

TURKISH ORIGIN

Ever since 1683, when the first coffee beans reached Vienna as booty captured from the besieging Turkish army, the life of Vienna has revolved around coffee cups. Kolschitzky, a Pole, was rewarded for his success as a spy among the Turks, by permission to open the first coffee house, "At the Sign of the Blue Bottle."

To the cafes the Viennese has been accustomed to repair to read the world's newspapers, tethered to bamboo frames, to do serious business deals, or to plot revolution.

Trotsky for years had his "circle" in the Cafe Central, where others wrote books, songs and operettas. Later, the Nazi murderers of Dollfus planned their putsch at the Cafe Weghuber, where the organizer, Fridolin Glass, sat all day over coffee, receiving couriers' reports of his progress.

There were different coffee houses for every group and class. Some of the great Viennese composers wrote the first draft of their melodies on the marble tops of tables. Still today no true Viennese orders simply "coffee." He orders by one of 20 recognized appellations, such as a "cup of gold," "a cup of nut-brown," "a melange," a "Capuchin," a "mocca" and so forth. And still the old-fashioned Viennese demands his coffee "As black as night, as sweet as love, and as hot as hell."

DIMINISHED GLORY

Many factors have worked together to diminish the glory of the coffee house. There have been two long war experiences of "Ersatz" coffee and saccharine. The world's newspapers, in which one could browse the whole morning for the price of a cup of black coffee, were replaced for five or six years by Hitler's screeching "Volkischer Beobachter." Ice cream parlors and confectioners have competed seriously for custom since the last war; wine drinking in wine bars has increased; running costs are up—heating for example costs 10 times the prewar figures—and so do coffee beans. All kinds of new taxes—amusement tax, drinks tax, card tax—are levied.

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID M. BROCK

A RECENT photographic competition in the Vancouver Daily Province awarded prizes to two typically cute pictures. There was nothing very much to either picture, but in one there was a kitten standing beside a boot, and in the other there was a priest escorting a little girl toward a church door. The titles were "Puss in Boots" and "A Little Child Shall Lead Them."

Now the kitten was not in boots at all, but outside a single boot, so the title was cockeyed. And the child was not leading the priest to church (if any priest needs to be urged to go to church, which seems improbable); the priest was visibly ahead of the kid, and lugging it gently on. Which proves that if you can't really get that cute picture after all (and heaven knows it is easy enough, for the cute-minded), then you can cuten it up all right with a cute and inaccurate title.

But the funny thing about this competition was that there was no extra prize for the best answer to "What's wrong with this picture?" Next week I hope to enter a picture of a singularly repulsive little boy sitting against some grape-vines and I shall call it "Jack and the Beanstalk." That will do for now, until I get to Stratford-on-Avon, where I'll take a picture of a stuffed lamb outside the Memorial Theatre and call it (heaven forgive me) "Lamb's Tales from Shakespeare."

TOTEM-LAND

THE AUTHOR of Rose-Marie filled Banff full of totem poles, where they don't belong, but at least he never thought of putting them on license plates and gents' neckwear, as the Totem-Land Society requests us to do. In England this year they are putting a picture of Stonehenge on their license plates, and many Britons are staining themselves blue with wood, to look like ancient Britons and attract tourists. (It is also claimed that houseflies hate the color blue.) But these things are nothing to what is going on in Fiji, where cannibalism is being revived to tempt the hungry sightseer and photographer. Of course it isn't real cannibalism, and it is all done by white men, but it makes the tourist sit up. Young pigs are roasted whole, and then their little features are carefully altered (see Evelyn Waugh) to make them look more human... though it doesn't take much alteration at that. The diners are urged by a peaplayer to utter bloodthirsty cries as they attack the little one en masse.

GLAMOUR

THE RECENT dispute in Hollywood about glamour (or glamor) boiled down to an argument about whether half-bare meat is, when thrown off balance by high-heeled shoes, quite so attractive to humans as either a perfectly nude by a great master or a perfectly dressed Parisienne with charm. The general opinion seems to be that the half-bare starlet wins, but it's little this writer cares. What interests him is the fact that glamour was originally the same word as grammar. Both (or so it seems without troubling to look it up) had something to do with magic. Hollywood knows almost as little about pure magic (in a woman or anything else) as it does about grammar. But talking of the draped and the half-draped, it is rumored that bird-fanciers are now fancying captive dickie-birds with most of their feathers plucked off, and that they look very cute, not to say fetching. They look like tiny ostriches, with a dash of poodle and the wrong end of a baboon. So do a lot of dames in pictures.

SKIP IT

AN AMERICAN psychologist urges children to learn to skip paragraphs while reading. They get all the main sense, they save their eyes, and they get time to reflect. (Who teaches them to reflect?) This is supposed to be a new theory, but most American writers have been writing for that type of customer for a generation. And it is well known that many writers not only mean less than half of what they say (filling the rest up with words ad lib.), but actually don't necessarily feel that they need to mean anything at all. Similarly, there are many plays and movies today from which you can walk out half way through without missing a thing. But here we are talking only about the written and spoken word. In Amsterdam they now have a children's art gallery, run by Professor Didymus, where they urge children to skip every other room, to skip every other picture in the rooms they do enter, and to look at only half of each picture they do look at. Then they go home and write half an essay with half their brain, trying to use only half the keys on the typewriter. This is called Concentration.

TAINT SO, HONEY

THERE seems to be an impression among comic-strip artists and other American students of dialect that the Scottish are in the habit of saying "tis" for "it is" or "it's." If that were so, the Scots would also say "tisma" or "tis no" for "it is" or "it's no." Which they don't. If the Americans are going to adopt the Scots, they seem most imperially to be planning, they might as well get things straight. Otherwise they're going to have Seaforths dressed in Gordon tartan (which they call plaid, not tartan), drinking Drambuie mixed with grapefruit juice, in full dress at midday, and crying to each other "Och, Nussbaum, and 'tis a wee bit hoosie fu' the noo-o' daft havers and clishma-clavers, ye ken fine," while they play the pibroch dance on their claymores. In fact, they've done more than that already. They can make haggis out of celluloid and celluloid out of haggis. They once had a Scots adviser in Hollywood but they had to fire him. He kept interrupting the work.

As Our Readers See It

VOTE OF THANKS

I am requested by those of our patients who are regular wrestling fans to express their appreciation of Mrs. Sonria Humphry's kindness in inviting them to be her guests at the professional wrestling show which will be presented at the Bay Street armories on Saturday, Aug. 12, in aid of the Cosmopolitan Club charities.

It would be most appropriate, too, at this time, to thank Rocky Brooks for always making it his responsibility to see that a good ringside seat is provided for every Veterans' Hospital patient who is well enough to attend the various wrestling exhibitions which he promotes. A. E. MOURANT, Recreational Supervisor, Department of Veterans' Affairs.

SHOW THE WAY

The aggressiveness of Russian foreign policy springs from the false Marxist doctrine that the Western regimes are inherently corrupt, unstable and divided, and inevitably doomed to collapse. Consequently, the Soviet rulers believe that they have more to gain by hastening the collapse of the Western Powers than by co-operating with them.

Basic reasons why the communistic doctrines have obtained such widespread influence still remain economic and social. Their policies are supported by distortions of the truth, and by racial and religious discrimination within the democracies, of which we see regrettable instances even in Canada.

Our job is to convince the peoples laboring under the Communist hammer, and who are occasionally mowed down by a very red sickle, that Stalin and his not so brilliant policy-makers are wrong. It is still possible to do this without an all devastating war, which would create more problems than those which it had set out to settle.

BUT WHO RUNS IT?

The 1 o'clock Times news broadcast of Thursday informed all its listeners that the peace petitions being circulated for signatures were subversive in character. I would suggest that one of your staff be present at any one of the meetings of the Victoria Peace Council, and note, first, the personnel of the membership; second, the nature of the business transacted, and third, the absence of any political or sectarian bias.

They have all suffered—the personnel—irreparable losses of near and dear ones, and their sole aim is to try to save others from the same experience. They have paid and are still paying the price of the last two wars—the dividends of death—to the munitions makers.

Let us have the truth, not inferences alone.

JOURNALISTIC ART

H. Wickham Steed in BBC London Letter
I, as an old journalist, cannot accept off-hand the view that journalism is a profession. I think it is at once an art, a vocation and a ministry. No amount of professional training will fit a man to be a true journalist unless he feels that his duty is to inform, to enlighten, and to guide the public through his newspaper, without forgetting that his power to do so depends on the industrial and commercial sides of newspaper enterprise.

The Art Of Getting Along

From the Cominco Magazine

SOONER or later, a man, if he is wise, discovers that life is a mixture of good days and bad, victory and defeat, give and take. He learns that it doesn't pay to be a sensitive soul; that he should let some things go over his head like water off a duck's back.

LEARNS MUCH

He learns that he who loses his temper usually loses out. He learns that all men have burnt toast for breakfast now and then, and that he shouldn't take the other fellow's grouches too seriously. He learns that carrying a chip on his shoulder is the easiest way to get into a fight, and the quickest way to become unpopular is to carry tales and gossip about others.

He learns that buck-passing always turns out to be a boomerang, and that it never pays. He comes to realize that the school he runs along "fairly well" without him. He learns that it doesn't matter so much who gets the credit so long as the job gets done.

He learns that all people are human and that it doesn't do any harm to smile and say "Good Morning," even if it is raining. He learns that most of the other fellows are as ambitious as he is, that they have brains that are as good or better, and that hard work and not cleverness is the secret of success. He learns to sympathize with the youngster "coming on the job" because he remembers how bewildered he was when he first started out.

GOOD AVERAGE

He learns not to worry when he makes a blunder because experience has shown him that if he always gives his best, his average will break pretty well. He learns that no man ever got to first base alone, and that it is only through co-operative effort that we move on to better things. He learns that bosses are not monsters, trying to get the last ounce of work out of him for the least amount of pay, but that they are usually fine men who have succeeded through hard work.

He learns that folks are not any harder to get along with in one place than another, and that the "getting along" depends about 99 per cent upon his own behavior.

Waiting Room Fish

The Times of London

SOME dentists, it is reported, are thinking of putting aquariums in their waiting rooms, banking on the psychological theory that watching goldfish swim in a big glass bowl as all little goldfish do is good for the nerves and a relief to the strain of waiting. Certainly there is something restful in the monotonous fin action of the indefatigable fish, who resemble athletes cooped up in the restricted space of a ship who yet manage to get in their eight miles a day by striding round and round the deck.

Moreover, as entertainers, they have not much competition to face. Their repertoire is limited, but in comparison to the pile of papers and magazines on the table they are firmly at the top of the bill, for about papers and magazines in a dentist's waiting room there is the chill of death, a whiff of corruption and the morgue.

What really fascinates the normal person about an aquarium is the astonishing likeness its denizens bear to a number of his acquaintances, but the more exotic the fish the less close the resemblance is likely to be. Fill a dentist's aquarium with a nice assortment of dogfish, cod and pike and in the game of matching fish with friend even the dentist himself will be forgotten.

In three years the U.S.—we hope—will be the first nation to possess the atom submarine, and so lay the foundation for a fleet which will outrun, outfight and outmanoeuvre the most advanced—Vice-Admiral Charles A. Lockwood.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

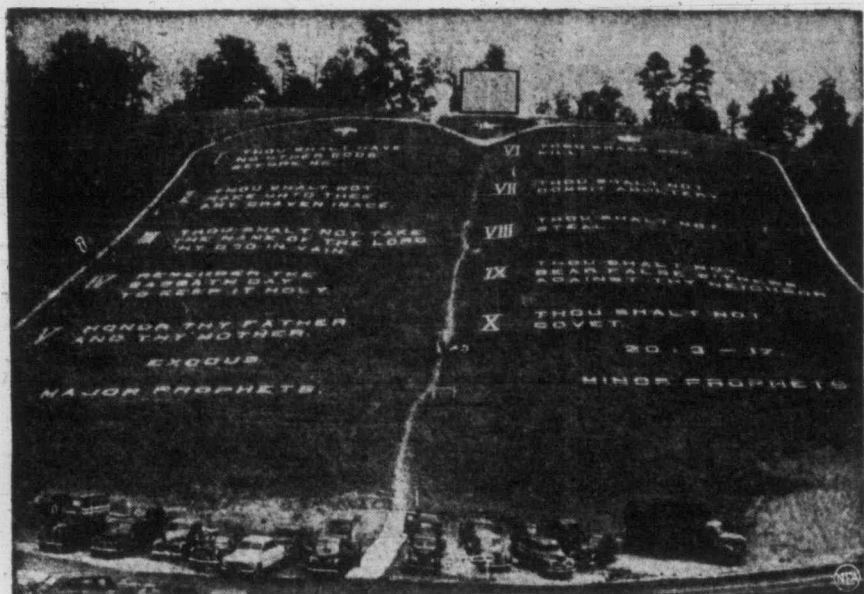

"THERE'S two things," said the Elevator Man, "to say about photography. One is, everybody hates to have their picture took. The other is, everybody likes to have their picture took. And they're both right."

"The first is what everybody says as they let themselves be talked into it. The second is how they really feel. Even photographers aren't exceptions. They like to have their pictures taken taking pictures of somebody else—a sort of double exposure. Primitive natives think a camera is an evil eye. We know better of course, but most people still look scared in front of the lens. It just shows how few of us are really satisfied about our looks. Putting your face on paper is something like signing a blank cheque. You're wide open to be taken advantage of. Going down!"

"Whenever I think of photographs," said the Elevator Man, "I think of that story of Stephen Leacock's. He told about the timid man who visited a family for afternoon tea. He couldn't say no to anything, so every time when he suggested it was time to go they'd press him to have another cup and he'd give in and stay. As the afternoon wore on they got out the photograph album to amuse him. When they politely asked him to stay to dinner he was afraid to refuse. When it got late, he agreed to stay to lunch, then tea, then dinner. Weeks later he was still living with them, spending all his time in the parlor drinking tea and looking at photographs, and still unable to turn down their weary hospitality. Lower man!"

"This is the season," said the Elevator Man, "when next winter's albums are being stocked up. Squirrels hoard nuts, bees gather honey, but we collect Willy Swimming, Our Summer House (but the light wasn't very good), A Rose Between Two Thorns, O You Kid, and other Heathless stuff. I think probably the squirrels have a slight edge."

THE WEEKLY SERMON

Story Of Ezra, Nehemiah Has Present-Day Aspect For Jews

By WILLIAM E. GILROY, D.D.

The Old Testament books of Ezra and Nehemiah tell the story of two men of vision and courage who led an exiled people from Babylon back to the Jewish homeland. It is also the story of the rebuilding of Jerusalem.

The great story has a present-day aspect for Jews once more are seeking to fulfill their age-long dream of living in the historic Holy Land. In that ancient time many Jews remained in Babylon, where they had established roots in their exile, and gained considerable prosperity. There they built so strong a Babylonian Judaism that it lasted until the 11th century A.D.

Similarly many Jews of today will continue to make their contribution to the lands in which they are so well established. But the homing instinct is strong in some, and thousands of displaced persons still dream of finding a secure place in a Promised Land.

KINGDOM ESTABLISHED

Let me recall briefly the events leading up to the life and work of Ezra and Nehemiah. The Northern Kingdom of Israel was established after Solomon's death, when 10 tribes rebelled under Jeroboam.

One hundred years later the armies of Babylon overwhelmed the Southern Kingdom of Judah and carried most of the people to exile in Babylon. A vivid account of that exile is to be found in Psalm 137.

The best things in life are sometimes valued only after they are lost and the Israelites in exile recounted the sins of the past and their failure to heed God's command and call.

When King Artaxerxes inquired as to the cause of the evident sadness of his cupbearer, Nehemiah, he found this devout Jew troubled over the desolate state of Jerusalem. The king commissioned Nehemiah governor, entrusting him with power to lead an expedition there.

Nehemiah was a soldier, a man of action, and a man of spiritual devotion as well. The great spiritual leader in the movement of restoration, however, was Ezra.

REVIVALIST AT HEART

Ezra, a revivalist at heart, championed the rediscovery of the "Law of the Lord." Through public reading the Law and organized worship in the Holy City, Ezra launched a successful movement against the idolatry in certain high places.

It is unfortunate that the detailed achievements of Ezra and Nehemiah have not been recorded in a chronologically clear order. Through the centuries scholars have found the two Books difficult to read because of vague references to time and circumstance.

It is my opinion, however, that the first expedition failed. I believe the later work of Nehemiah made reconstruction possible, as well as the religious revival and the national restoration. Minor details, though, are unimportant beside the actual achievements of these great leaders, who accomplished their purpose in spite of delays, enemies, and countless frustrations. The devotion of Ezra and the courage of efficient Nehemiah, triumphing in a great era of Jewish history, combine to form an inspiring story.

Says Africa Will Be Next Problem

The Asiatic situation is not an easy one, the European situation demands attention, but in five years the African situation will be even bigger than either. Hon. Ernest Brown, former member of Winston Churchill's wartime cabinet, said in an address to members of the Rotary Club.

Speaking on the British system of government, Mr. Brown said that the greatest point about the government is its representation of each constituency. The last election showed that people had taken a look at nationalization and were not quite sure if they still wanted it, but the results showed that they want no more of it in this parliament.

"Your guess is as good as mine," Mr. Brown said about the next election, but in his own private opinion he felt it might be sooner than most people think.

Wounded Korean Reds Not Tended

SOMEWHERE IN SOUTH KOREA (AP)—A captured Korean Red told interrogators Friday the North Korean army gives no organized medical care to its wounded men.

The prisoner said he had seen no ambulances, doctors or nurses with the Red troops. He said wounded were left behind when North Koreans advanced. And when the front was static, he said, wounded Communists got only limited first aid from fellow soldiers.

Lt.-Col. Frank White, Canadian U.N. observer from Montreal, flew over Communist lines to a depth of 30 miles for five hours, checking on the prisoner's statement.

He reported he saw no North Korean ambulances or other medical aid facilities, and concluded the prisoner's statement was true.

19,000 Doctors In Britain May Quit

LONDON (Reuter)—Nineteen thousand doctors—members of the powerful British Medical Association—indicated Friday they plan to withdraw from Britain's state-run health service if their demand for higher salaries is not met. They are awaiting results of an inquiry following the government's earlier refusal to implement pay recommendations of a government committee dating back to 1946.

Hoarders Warned Trap May Spring

Canadian Press Survey Shows Oversupplies In Varied Goods

OTTAWA (CP)—The hoarder, whose activities lead to shortages of goods, higher prices and unpopular controls, is back at work in Canada, much to the disgust of leading government, business and consumer association officials.

In retirement since the disappearance of wartime shortages, the hoarder again is at work in some sections of the country.

But a Canadian Press survey Friday indicated the hoarder may be left holding the bag this time.

Government, business and consumer association officials agreed there is no shortage of supplies of any kind and none is likely to develop unless there is excessive buying. In fact, the supply of some products was so good price drops were likely.

The officials condemned panic-buying and hoarding as "selfish, exceedingly foolish and unpatriotic." It tended to disrupt the whole economy of the country if carried too far.

J. H. Brace, chairman of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce, said "people who hoard must realize they are doing the country and themselves a real disservice since they will inevitably force prices up and make it necessary to institute an arbitrary and complicated system of controls."

Spokesmen for major consumer industries with head offices in Montreal said that in many cases there is an oversupply of so-called scarce goods. Bargain sales later in the year should produce lower prices.

A government official said there are no shortages.

The government now has not the power to reimpose the price and rationing controls in effect during the war and postwar years. That power has returned to the provinces. But the federal government could reimpose the controls by declaring that a national emergency exists and that such action is warranted.

Mrs. F. E. Wright of Port Credit, Ont., president of the 12,000-member Canadian Association of Consumers, appealed to women to give the lead in refraining from panic-buying and hoarding.

Pastor Says He Was Misled As To 'Bartered Bride'

VANCOUVER (CP)—Testimony of a retired minister that he mistakenly married a brother and sister featured the preliminary hearing of the case of the bartered bride in police court here Friday.

The hearing was adjourned until Monday.

Charged with conspiracy in a fraudulent marriage are Alex Gokey, 71-year-old Edmonton pig farmer; 18-year-old Allan Ajas of Edmonton, and his sister-in-law, Mrs. Jessie Ajas, 24, Haney, B.C.

Rev. James Westman testified four persons appeared at his home here July 28 with documents for a marriage. He said Ajas, whose age appeared on the documents as 22, posed as the bridegroom, using Gokey's name, and that Gokey represented himself as the father of the 15-year-old bride.

Probe Vancouver Scaffold Deaths

VANCOUVER (CP)—A possibility of tampering may have caused the deaths Wednesday of two painters killed in an eight-story fall was raised today at an inquest ruling the deaths accidental.

George H. Daniels, 27, and Lawrence C. Sinclair, 30, were killed.

Joseph Boshard Jr., employer of the two, said he assumed full responsibility for the condition of the equipment although he conceded "it could have been tampered with."

Evidence was given that the two eye splices removed from two swing stage lines might have caused the accident.

Typhoon Drowns 14

MANILA (Reuter)—Fourteen people were killed in typhoon floods which have swept Central Luzon, principle island in the Philippines, for the last three days. Floods have damaged or destroyed crops, roads, buildings and bridges throughout Pangasinana, Tarlac and Nueva Ecija provinces.

Warden Robert S. Douglas said there was no doubt that Doukhobors, convicted earlier this year on arson and nudism charges following prolonged disturbances at their interior homes, fired the tool shed situated well away from the main penitentiary buildings.

The warden said he thought "they did it to get a little publicity. They have been disgusted that their brothers in the in-

Here To Do Some Shopping

"Victoria is simply beautiful." That was way in which Mrs. R. O. Boyer of Reno, Nevada, "Today's Tourist," described city. She, her husband and son, Robert, were here for first time. Boyers were interested in shopping and scenic trips.

Tourists From Reno Happy With City Just As It Is

While other tourists have complained of the inadequate signposts in Victoria, "Today's Tourists," Mr. and Mrs. Roy O. Boyer and their 10-year-old son, Robert, of Reno, Nevada, appeared to be well satisfied with the present set-up.

"Coming here for the first time, I expected to have plenty of trouble finding my way around, but it was not difficult at all," Mr. Boyer said. "Everything just seemed to fall in line."

Mr. and Mrs. Boyer, both civic employees in Reno, were highly pleased with their first view of the city.

"We are on vacation and don't intend to do a thing in the way of housekeeping. And we found the perfect place for it. A little spot six miles out on the Island Highway where the accommodation is first-class," the Boyers said.

The Boyers said the weather here was superb.

City Music Lovers Served By Former Opera Singer

Prof. J. L. Hoffman's School of Music and Opera will open the fall term Sept. 5.

Prof. Hoffman's school at 738 Fort Street, has been serving the music-loving public for many years. Its principal, who is a Canadian citizen, came here from Louisville, Ky., where he had been a music teacher, organist and choirmaster as well as orchestra director for more than 20 years, after having taught voice culture and piano in New York for 12 years.

Prior to settling in the U.S., he had been a grand opera singer in Europe, and during his long career as a singer, teacher and performing musician, he met and became friendly with many celebrities in the music world.

His great skill in voice training has been recognized and commented on by outstanding vocal teachers in Toronto and New York. He has taught many of our outstanding singers in Victoria. Prof. Hoffman graduated from the Royal Academy of Music in Berlin.

He has been a pupil of the celebrated Signor G. B. Lamperti, and he has always maintained a very high standard of teaching. Many of his pupils have been awarded highest honors at musical festivals in Victoria and abroad, (including Rose Bowl and City of Victoria Medallion).

HOARDER OF SUGAR MEETS HIS MATCH

NEW HAVEN, Conn. (AP) Virginia Welch of West Haven reported she heard the following dialogue in a grocery store here:

Customer: Got any sugar?
Grocer: Yes.

Customer: May I have 30 pounds?
Grocer: Yes.

Customer: How much?
Grocer: Thirty dollars.

Customer (indignant, outraged and flabbergasted): What?
Grocer: That's right, $30. You hoard sugar, and I hoard dollar bills.

Tunics Practical For Schoolgirls

It is the custom for girls attending private schools to wear uniform, usually tunics, while in the public schools the student is permitted to wear whatever she chooses.

The tunics are good looking, neat and tidy. They are practical for they are made of durable material. In families where there are younger sisters these tunics may be passed on to the younger members of the family. Best recommendation for the tunic is the fact that it eliminates the variation of clothing which causes competition, envy and even a feeling of inferiority which may trouble a child who cannot keep up with the others.

Tee Topics

By BILL WALKER
Greetings. Once again the bosky golfing dells resound to the plaintive wail of the divot calling its mate, and I am bestirred to resume these fairway notes. (Bestirred, that is, by a large gentleman with a sand wedge in his hand, who told me this column is a "Saturday must... Help, ehms, help!")

Big and handsome Ralph Whaley, the Seattle bow and arrow man, was telling us at Oak Bay the other evening that there was general disappointment in his town that Walker Vancouver's Bill Mawhinney failed to qualify for the U.S. Amateur, in the recent regional tests.

"Bill is a fine boy and a first-class golfer," said friend Whaley. "He just happened to have a bad first round. He took 74 strokes. In the afternoon he came back with a 68 but it just wasn't good enough."

Tough league! However, Bill got a well-deserved break Friday when Chester Gordon of Portland, one of the qualifiers, dropped out and Bill being first alternate goes in his stead.

No Canadian golfer has been a serious contender in the U.S. Amateur since the days of Ross (Silent Sandy) Somerville. Sandy was so serious about it in 1932 that he won the title—the only Canadian ever to do so.

Just to get into the right golfing mood, I hid myself along with three other staffers to Uplands Thursday. Dave Stock, our labor expert and I paired up against Graham Harris of the Canadian Press and Lloyd Baker, the parliamentary reporter.

Before teeing off, club professional Walter Gravin informed us the course was clear. Golfing tourists seem to have passed up Victoria this year as things have been pretty quiet on the Uplands front lately.

Four hours and some 400 odd strokes later we were back at the clubhouse with Baker and Harris playing the role of hosts. This, I informed the defeated, was the usual procedure.

Feeling rather sorry for themselves, the losers did another "usual" thing. They replayed the game. However, they felt much better when I recalled the time that Pacific Northwest Seniors' champion Ralph Whaley put three successive tee shots out of bounds on the sea-bound seventh at Oak Bay.

A familiar theme but with a new twist is Mrs. Tim Matson's refusal to play on B.C.'s women's golf team.

Overlooked when the moguls were selecting the provincial squad, Mrs. Matson went to the mainland for the express purpose of proving she was worthy of a place on the team in an extra playoff necessitated when one of the originals dropped out. She did just that, then turned down the honor.

The only red faces in this deal belong to selection committee.

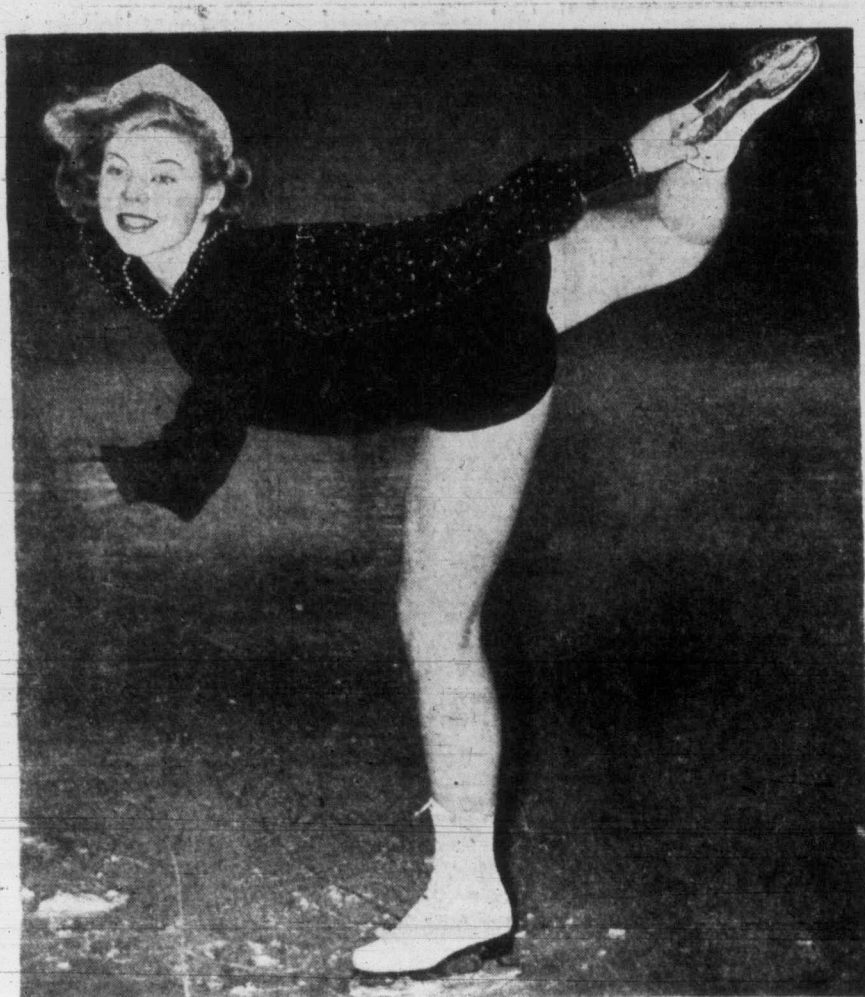

Winning of the "All-American" (that's an ironic title) championship by spangle-jowled Bobby Locke this week will cause dancing in Commonwealth streets.

It will be recalled that the ex-air force type from South Africa was barred by the Americans a year ago from the lush P.G.A. tournament. The official explanation was that he was "being disciplined" for cancelling some important exhibition dates. Most sportsmen had a different view. Bobby was locked out because his words were too straight, his iron too loud and his putting too true. (In short, because he won all the dough!)

This year, calmer heads seemed to prevail in the P.G.A. and Bobby was invited back for the $15,000 Chicago tournament. Despite his long absence from the exacting gold trail, Locke turned up some of the most spectacular golf the aficionados had ever seen. On the greens, his ball dived for the hole as if each had a magnet. In five of the last six holes of the final round he sank putts of 12 feet and over—one of them more than 30 feet!

Just to twist it a little, Bobby look on the home pro, Lloyd ("What would I do if I found a snake on my ball?") Mangrum in the playoff and defeated him soundly.

In a day when British athletes are being cuffed not only hither but thither, Locke's triumph should be the signal for a rousing chorus of "Land of Hope and Glory" not to mention "On the Old Transvaal."

Gold Medalist To Instruct Here

New professional of the Victoria Figure Skating Club, Miss Marianne McMillan of Vancouver, will take over her duties on or about Oct. 1, when the club opens its winter season of activities at the Memorial Arena. Miss McMillan assisted Marie Rose Thacker, Kerrisdale Club professional, last year. She is present women's senior champion of the Kerrisdale Club. This will be her first season as a professional.

REQUEST NEW DEAL FOR UNITED TEAM

Harry Young, president of Victoria United football club, accompanied by Ted Carey, went into a huddle last night at Vancouver with officials of the Coast League.

The Victorians presented their case for more equitable traveling expense arrangement should the United enter the intercity circuit for the 1950-51 campaign. According to word received from Young he considers the local delegation made favorable progress.

Next step will be to get support of the mainland clubs at annual meeting in Vancouver on Aug. 26.

B.C.-Ontario Play Off For Cricket Title

WINNIPEG (CP)—Ontario and British Columbia were to meet today to determine the Dominion cricket tournament champion.

Both teams have won four games. Ontario Friday won a low-scoring game by five wickets and one run from Alberta. Final scores were Alberta 32, Ontario 33 for five.

The other game was close. After Manitoba made 97, B.C. came from four runs behind as the last man went in to end with 98 and one wicket to fall.

After a poor start in their match with B.C., Manitoba made a temporary recovery when Paul McDonald and Harold Snipper were partnered. The score read five for 94 when they left. McDonald made 48 and Snipper 39.

Ted Parkins was top scorer for B.C., with 24, while A. C. Hendy had 14.

Bromwich Shows Class To Give Aussies Split

RYE, N.Y. (UP)—John Bromwich and Frank Sedgman were favored to defeat Lennart Bergelin and Sven Davidson of Sweden in doubles today and give Australia a 2-to-1 lead in the Davis Cup interzone tennis finals.

The underdog Swedes managed to gain an even split in the opening two singles matched yesterday when 25-year-old Bergelin took off his shoes midway through the final set and upset Sedgman, 2-6, 6-2, 7-5, 1-6, 6-3, on the rain-soaked Westchester Country Club courts.

In the second-singles match, Bromwich breezed to a 6-2, 6-3,

Ransom Two Strokes Up In Tam O'Shanter

CHICAGO (UP)—Henry Ransom, the veteran Texan of golf's tournament trail, teed off on the third round of the Tam O'Shanter "world" championship today with a two-stroke lead on the field.

Ransom, who now plays out of St. Andrews, Ill., putted well yesterday for a 69 that gave him a 139 total at the halfway mark. He had only 31 putts without a single three-putt green on the second round.

Other leaders were Chandler Harper, the P.G.A. champion from Portsmouth, Va., at 71-70—141, and Dick Mayer, Porky Oliver and Jim Ferrier with 142's.

The whole shebang was threatened with cancellation of first round scores after the sponsor decided a rainstorm had washed out eight late finishers, and thus the other 56 players' scores also were voided.

But a five-man committee of professionals led by Chick Harbert of Detroit, protested bitterly and the eight finished up before the second round of the $55,000 extravaganza started yesterday.

Harbert in a statement today said it was a good thing for golf in general and the pros in particular that a stand was taken against tournament sponsors who disregarded the players' wishes because they hold the purse strings.

Others of the select pro's who were still in the running as the third round got under way were Clayton Heafner, Ed Furgol and Bobby Locke at 143, and Lawson Little, Johnny Bulla, Skee Riegel, Ted Kroll, Jimmy Demaret and Cary Middlecoff at 144.

Annual Soccer Parley Tuesday

Annual meeting of the Victoria and District Football League will take place at the British Public Schools Club on Monday night at 8.

Election of officers will be held and plans for the season opener discussed. Team entries will also be accepted.

Adverts Hand Moose First Loss

Moose, who have already clinched the Alf Longley women's softball trophy, dropped their first game of the double round-robin series last night, bowing to Adverts 3 to 2.

Adverts tied the score at 2 to 2 in the sixth after trailing from the third inning on, and then pushed across the tie-breaking marker in the seventh.

Next game in the series will take place Monday with Adverts meeting Allsorts.

Take Series Lead

B.C.E. Office and City Hall took a one-game lead in the Utility Softball League semifinal playoff series this week.

The electric nine scored two runs in the top of the seventh inning to edge Firemen, 5 to 4, while the City Hall squad whipped Northwestern Creamery 10 to 3.

Next games in the series will take place Tuesday night at Victoria West Park with B.C. Electric and Firemen meeting on the lower diamond and City Hall and Northwestern on the upper field.

In The News

CANADIAN AMATEUR golf champion Bill Mawhinney will compete in the U.S. Amateur golf championships at Minneapolis Aug. 21 to 25. Mawhinney fired a three-over par 143 in 36-hole medal test at Seattle's Broadmoor course to gain first alternate position. When Chester Gordon of Portland was unable to make trip, Mawhinney got the berth.

A NEW RECORD for consecutive pitching victories may be written into the W.I.L. record books tonight at Vancouver. Sandy Robertson, the Caps stay-at-home pitcher, will take the hill against Tri-City Braves with a season's record of 12 straight.

He shares the league record with Frank Nelson, formerly of Spokane.

YOU PRONOUNCE IT, we can't. But nevertheless Frank Skiszay will meet Ivan Gorky in one of the three main events of tonight's charity wrestling card at the Armories. Promoter Rocky Brooks says it's the best mat card of the season. First bout starts at 8.15.

Bickford's Effort May Provide Spark

Boston Can Still Make It In National Pennant Chase

Vern Bickford's no-run, no-hitter, first in the majors since 1948, may be the spark to ignite another pennant fire in Boston.

No longer do the Braves' field customers chant that old refrain about "Spahn, Sain and a day of rain." Their '48 pennant formula is outdated.

Bickford, once No. 3 man behind Johnny Sain and Warren Spahn, can hold his own with the best, giving Billy Southworth a strong 1-2-3 pitching punch.

Five games behind the league-leading Phillies, the persistent Braves have a good chance to make the grade. After they finish with the dazed Brooklyn Dodgers tomorrow, they move into Philadelphia for two vital games.

Walking only four, the 29-year-old Bickford allowed but one to reach second base. Brooklyn, whose Rex Barney pitched the last no-hitter against

Arkays Spoil Salmonbellies' Playoff Hopes

New Westminster Salmonbellies were all but eliminated from Intercity Lacrosse League playoff competition last night at Vancouver Forum as they bowed to the last-place Richmond Kerrisdale squad 11 to 10.

The fishermen are now five points behind fourth-place Burrards with each club having three games to play.

Salmonbellies must win all their remaining games while Burrards must lose three to enable Jock Wood's club to squeeze into the select group of four.

The Salmonbellies' fate will probably be decided when they meet Burrards at the Forum Monday night.

Richmond, though minus their star performer, Roddy McLeod, turned in one of their best games of the season. They led 5 to 2 at the half after a scoreless first period and by three-quarter to 10 to 6.

Salmonbellies bounced back with one of their famous fourth-quarter attacks but fell one goal short of tying the count when Richmond stalled effectively after Alf Wood had scored the losers' 10th goal with 40 seconds left to play.

Meanwhile all was quiet on the Shamrock home front as the boys were resting up for their final two games of the regular season on Wednesday and Thursday.

Richmond will be here on Wednesday with the Rocks traveling to New Westminster for the league final against the Adanacs Thursday.

Channel Record

DOVER, Eng. (AP)—A 37-year-old engineer crossed the English Channel in an 18-foot kayak in four hours, seven minutes Thursday, bettering the existing record by 50 minutes. The engineer, Peter Ross of Richmond, made the crossing from Cap Gris Nez to Dover.

Wilson Posts 20th Mound Win In Coast League

Rainiers' Star First To Reach Charmed Group

Big Jim Wilson, a likely prospect for the major leagues before the season ends, twirled his 20th Coast League victory last night as his Seattle Rainiers trounced the league-leading Oakland Oaks 8 to 1.

It was the first 20-game victory skein for the loop but it didn't do much for Seattle's chances as they trail 3 to 1 in the current series and are 14½ games behind the Oaks.

Wilson got four runs in front in the first inning, then confined the losers to four hits.

San Diego Padres, in second by nine games, outlasted Los Angeles 9 to 8 with seven runs in the last two innings. The losers' Clarence Mattern hit a four-bagger with bases loaded in the seventh.

At Sacramento, San Francisco edged the Solons 1 to 0 in a tightly-pitched contest and Hollywood came from behind at home against Portland to dump the Beavers 4 to 2.

Twenty-six years in the wrestling racket and still a popular drawing card. That's the record of Glen Stone, who calls Olympia, Wash., his home town. He will appear on tonight's charity card at the Armories against rough and tough Soldat Gorky.

"I've wrestled the best of them over that long span and boast a lifetime record of 4,000 matches," Stone related during a conversation after his bout here last week-end.

"Number of my friends want me to stay with the game for another four years and then write a book, 'Thirty Years In Wrestling.' It's never been done before and I could certainly give a collaborator some interesting experiences. You know maybe I will go for that deal."

Likes Working In Summer

During his long career Stone has suffered minor injuries such as broken ankles and twisted arms but nothing serious. "You don't have to take those solid blows to the head and chin, the same as you do in boxing," he said.

Starting as a welterweight, Stone moved right up through the ranks until he was performing as a heavyweight at well over 200 pounds. Now he's down to around 190 and figures that is his best poundage. "I lose seven or eight pounds during a tough match but put it on again very quickly. This wrestling during the summer months is much better for you than winter matches as you cool out slower and there is less chance of catching cold."

Just about that time promoter Rocky Brooks strolled up. "You know I wrestled this fellow back in the days when wrestling was packing 'em in at the old Tillicum gym on Broad Street."

Salem Club Won't Be Back

If one is to believe the many reports circulating around the W.I.L. right now you can count Salem out of next year's picture. Seems certain the Portland Beavers will give up on their farm club. An effort may be made to move the franchise to a more appreciative town, otherwise the Coast League club may decide to let it remain idle. Of course there is always the chance the league will take over the franchise and attempt to secure an operator.

There seems little chance of Salem business interests buying out Portland. Several attempts have been made to get the club into the hands of Salem groups but the purchase price set by Portland has always been considered far too high.

Would Be League Headache

Chatting to Ad Liska, current manager of the Senators, he put it this way: "I don't think Salem wants baseball." He went on to point out that the W.I.L. club suffers through being too close to Portland where a Coast League club operates. "After all, fans are going to patronize triple A ball when it means only a few miles driving by car."

Loss of the Salem club would provide the W.I.L. directors with a major headache unless they can find another location in which to operate the franchise. It would leave them saddled with an unbalanced seven-team circuit. Their only out would be to drop one of the remaining clubs and go along with a six-team league.

Aces Nip Millmen In Donkey Preview

Donkey baseball, which is not due to arrive in town until next week, held a sneak preview at Central Park last night as Brentwood Aces nipped B.C. Forest Products, 7 to 6.

The softball game was replete with mental errors, physical bobbles and "deep" strategy with even the umpires getting into the act.

Most of the action was crammed into the final three innings after Brentwood had come from behind in the fifth to wipe out an early Forest Products' 3 to 0 lead.

With the score tied at 3 to 3 entering the last of the seventh, John Furmston gave Brentwood the lead for the first time when he singled, went to second on an error by Jim Ireland and scored on a double by Ronnie Benn.

The millmen got that one back in the top of the eighth when Les Wilson tripled home Ireland who had doubled. Wilson should have had a home run but got crossed up in his coach's signals rounding third base and had to be content with a triple. He was out at the plate moments later on an attempted squeeze by George Brown.

REGAIN LEAD
Aces went ahead for the second time in their half of the inning when Phil Benn got a life on a Forest Products' "Alphonse and Gaston" act, advanced to third on an error by catcher John Kennedy and scored on an infield out.

Trailing 5 to 4, Forest Products took advantage of an error by Willie Benn that was good for two runs to again force into the lead at 6 to 5 in the top of the ninth.

Bill Benn singled to open the Brentwood ninth. He was safe at second on Furmston's dribbler, Ross' throw being too late. Ronnie Benn walked to load the bases. After a force at the plate on Rosy McLellan's ground ball,

NEW YORK (UP)—They benched the greatest ball player of an era for not hitting last night and he shrugged his shoulders as if it really didn't matter, but that proud old pro, Joe DiMaggio, wasn't very convincing.

There was a look in his deep-set eyes that spoke volumes as he sat in front of his locker in the Yankee dressing room while his teammates went out to take on the last place Philadelphia Athletics.

He tried to kid about it and that fell a little flat, too. It just didn't seem natural for the greatest slugger since Babe Ruth to be sitting it out because he can't blast those base hits as in other years.

"What's new?" he asked, and the old friend who had dropped in casually replied, "Nothing much."

"Nothing?" DiMaggio repeated with a wry smile.

Awkwardly as if he didn't want to bring it up, the friend said, "Well, I sure hate to see you out of that lineup tonight."

"The way I've been going I didn't belong in there," the magnificent old pro replied quickly. "I haven't been doing myself or anybody else any good out there."

DiMaggio said he felt that a rest of a few days would help him cure the worst batting slump of his career.

No Pitching, Hustle As A's Drop Another

By PETE SALLAWAY

Take pitching away from a ball club and there's little left. That's what happened to the Victoria Athletics last night as they absorbed a 10 to 2 beating from the lowly Salem Senators in the third game of their current W.I.L. series. Clubs wind up their final stand with two engagements today.

Despite a four-day rest south paw Aldon Wilkie just couldn't loosen up as Salem touched him for a pair of runs in each of the first two innings. The veteran was behind on nearly every batter and when he did get his pitches across it meant a base hit. He pulled himself with Warren Noyes taking over in the third and, as usual, he was bothered with control trouble. Wilkie and Noyes between them gave up 12 hits and, each was touched for four runs. Rookie John Brick worked the ninth and was charged with the final two tallies.

Athletics, playing without outfielder Gene Thompson, forced to sit on the bench with a sore ankle, turned in a lackadaisical performance. The boys appeared to be going through the motions. It was so bad that Manager Marty Krug threatened to call morning practices if they didn't display more hustle.

Bill Osborn turned in a smart winning mound trick for the visitors. For five and two-thirds innings he had a one-hit game and it was not until the sixth that he allowed a run. Of the six hits given up by the young right-hander, Lou Novikoff picked up three of them and drove in both of the A's tallies.

Four hits, all singles, gave Salem two runs in the first inning with Bob Cherry's home run with one aboard in the second making it 4 to 0. From that point on the game became mightily uninteresting as far as the fans were concerned. Senators picked up their fifth run off Noyes in the fifth and made three hits around two walks good for another three in the seventh.

Desperation paid off for the Vancouver Caps who salvaged their tilt with Tri-City Braves in the bottom of the ninth when Jim Keating powered a home run over the left field fence, driving Len Tran home ahead of him, to win 6 to 5.

Yakima Bears rallied after losing four straight, defeating Wenatchee 6 to 3. They preserved their slim-one and a half game lead over Tacoma, which hung a 6 to 5 defeat on lowly Spokane Indians.

Admiral Inspects Royal Roads Graduates

Rear-Admiral H. G. DeWolf, Flag Officer Pacific Coast, inspects white-uniformed Royal Roads naval graduates accompa-

White Uniforms Worn As Naval Cadets Graduate

Graduation ceremonies at Canadian Services College at Royal Roads are usually stereotyped with the description "colorful."

But Friday afternoon's parade in front of picturesque Hatley Park castle easily outdid all others for the right to the over-worked adjective.

It was an all-navy show at the tri-services college, and for the first time those connected in any way with the parade wore white uniforms seldom seen on this coast.

As the 38 graduating cadets, 11 of them from Kingston's Royal Military College, marched past Rear-Admiral H. G. DeWolf, flag officer Pacific coast, the white ensign snapped sharply in a south breeze which also ruffled the azure blue waters of Esquimalt Lagoon, and beyond, the Juan de Fuca Strait.

BIG MOMENT

It was a big moment for the graduates when they went through the lanyard ceremony. In the traditional ceremony, they slow march through the ranks of the junior term cadets who pull the lanyards from the shoulders of the seniors, who then about turn and quick march back as full-fledged midshipmen.

In a brief congratulatory speech, Admiral DeWolf welcomed the eight Royal Roads and two R.M.C. midshipmen who will now enter the permanent navy. (Others go into the R.C.N. Reserve).

"I would like to see larger numbers of young men like this in the navy, though," he said.

U.N. Korea Troops Fight Disease

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fleas, flies and fish are among potential enemies of Allied troops in Korea, experts of the United States Army surgeon-general's office said today.

So are mosquitoes, lice and rats. All are capable of transmitting diseases of military importance and precautions are taken to cope with the hazard. All troops sent to Korea receive shots against some of the diseases that occur there.

The medical men say preliminary evidence shows mosquito-borne malaria and various kinds of dysentery have so far accounted for the most sickness.

Great Propaganda Counter-Offensive

U.S. State Dept. Means World To Know Who Started Korea War

By JOHN H. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department officials held high hopes today for success in the United States propaganda counter-offensive against Russia over who started aggression in Korea.

Sons Follow In Fathers' Steps

A pair of brand new midshipmen in the Royal Canadian Navy Friday planted their feet on the path trodden by their fathers.

Midshipmen D. N. Mainguy and W. A. Nelles, both of whom have called Victoria their home for a good part of their lives, were among 38 cadets who graduated at Canadian Services College.

Midshipman Mainguy is the son of Rear Admiral E. Rollo Mainguy, flag officer Atlantic coast, former senior officer in this command, and Midshipman Nelles is the son of Admiral Percy W. Nelles, now retired and living at 630 St. Charles Street.

The fledgling officers were among the 12 of the graduating class of 38 who will remain in the permanent force.

Off To See Eclipse

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ten government scientists left today for Attu in the Aleutian Islands to observe a total eclipse of the sun Sept. 12.

The plan, sometimes referred to around the department as "Operation Figleaf," is to expose up to a point—Russia's stalling tactics in the United Nations and its support of the North Korean Communists.

The idea is to tell all the facts about Soviet conduct—by broadcasts, movies sent abroad, and the like—but to do this strictly as a propaganda campaign and not to make formal charges which might force an open break. Officials said—present U.S. policy calls for continuing diplomatic relations with Moscow and for taking no steps to force the Russians out of the U.N.

The latest blast in propaganda was loosed Friday by State Secretary Dean Acheson, who made three charges against Russia and its delegate in the U.N. Security Council, Jakob Malik.

Acheson claimed in a statement: (1) that the Soviets desire a Korean settlement which would be "object submission to Communist control," (2) that Russian tactics in the Security Council are designed to thwart the U.N. effort to restore peace and security in Korea, and (3) that Malik has disregarded "the duties of his office" as council president.

Acheson also urged Congress to approve an $89,000,000 fund for a "campaign of truth" against Soviet propaganda.

but your individual prospects are excellent." The admiral said the navy, with the 9,600-man ceiling removed, was looking to new sources for men, especially to universities and the lower deck.

SMOOTHING OUT CHANNELS "We are smoothing out channels of promotion and have great hopes of meeting requirements in that way," he said.

The top-ranking officer on this coast, noting that the parade was "practically on the eve of my leaving this command," stated he had always enjoyed his associations with the services college.

On a more serious vein, he said the first aim of this nation is peace, but that "we in this service have always felt the best insurance against war is to have strong armed forces."

TRIPLE WINNER

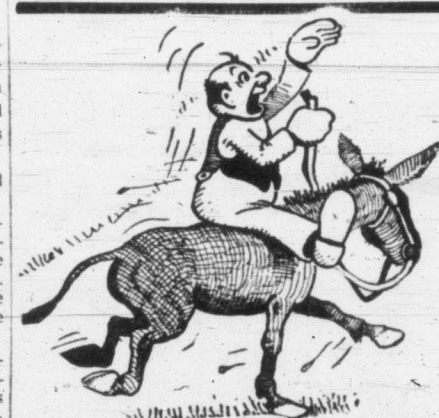

Triple winner of awards was Cadet Capt. F. W. Crickard of Vancouver. Admiral DeWolf presented him with the King's Canadian Dirk for the best all-round graduating cadet and the Department of National Defence Telescope for the cadet with the highest officer-like qualities combined with top examination marks.

Third award, the Nixon Memorial Sword for the best officer-like qualities along with reversion to Cadet J. M. Cumming of Edmonton.

The Stubbs Memorial Shield for the cadet with the best athletic ability and sportsmanlike qualities went to Cadet Paulie Kiar of Shawinigan Falls, Que., an R.M.C. boy.

Victorians in the graduating class were Cadets D. N. Mainguy, W. A. Nelles and W. C. Chaster.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Civic authorities today were reported planning security measures, including the screening of all city workers.

The object would be to eliminate all leftist supporters from the city's labor force, and the first step may be an order for the 1,800 workers to take oaths of allegiance.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—You have to stay alert if you want to keep up with the Hollywood news.

I discovered that this week I went blithely off on a two-weeks vacation while all heck was breaking loose in Hollywood.

For instance, when I left town Errol Flynn was cooling over the Roman beauty, Princess Ghika. He swore they would be wed in the fall and he would settle down. Now I return to find Flynn has tossed the princess aside for Patrice Wymore.

COULD REACH FAR

This is an incident which could have reached as far as the State Department, except for the fact that Romania is Red and the princess is not.

Let's take another news break. A couple of months ago, Betty Hutton broke with her husband, Ted Briskin. For several weeks she acted convincingly gay at various night spots with other men. She took over microphones for song sessions and generally gave a good impression of Mary Martin's mood in the number, "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Out Of My Hair."

So what happens? Betty reconciles with Briskin in Chicago.

AND BETTE, TOO—

When I left town, Bette Davis had returned from divorcing the voluble William Grant Sherry in Mexico. She declared her reported romance with Gary Merrill was part of the Hollywood fable. Besides, his wife was divorcing him in slowpoke California, which requires a year for married couples to cool off.

But—what do you know?—Now Bette is Mrs. Merrill, thanks again to Mexican justice.

All this has confused me no end and I am listening to the broadcasters and reading all the columns so I can catch up.

Losses In Storm Worse Than Flood's

WINNIPEG (BUP)—Officials of the Manitoba telephone service report more damage was caused to Greater Winnipeg phone lines by last Monday's electrical storm than in the spring flood.

Officials pointed out that the wind, hail and lightning storm snapped poles, wires and uprooted trees which fell on telephone lines.

They said it will take several weeks before phone service in Greater Winnipeg is back to normal.

Model Wood Totem Pole Collection For Museum

One of the finest collections of model wooden totem poles has been acquired by the Provincial Museum.

The collection of 25 totem poles was purchased from 85-year-old W. M. Halliday, 119 Linden Avenue, retired Indian agent, author of the book "Potlatch and Totem."

Collected while Mr. Halliday was living at Alert Bay between 1894 and 1933, the totem poles were carved by some of the most famous Indian carvers. Several of the models were carved by Charlie James, a noted Kwakiutl tribe carver.

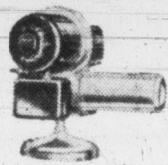

A headress, present by Indians to Mr. Halliday when he was made a member of the Kwakiutl whale clan, also is included in the collection. Among other items are a woven spruce root hat, a halibut club, polished stone hammer and chisel, a halibut hook and seven wooden spoons.

Mr. Halliday also turned over to the museum three Curtis photographs which are highly prized by collectors today.

Wilson Duff, museum anthropologist, said the collection was one of the finest he had ever seen. "It is a valuable addition to our collection for display purposes," he said.

THE STORY: Del Dorsam, private detective, is bodyguard of Frank Phajol, commercial diamond dealer, who is in Copper City, Ariz., to sell a large order to Mike Dominico, a big drifter. Phajol and his daughter Pat and Dorsam have just arrived and Dorsam is looking around the hotel to safeguard his employer and the diamonds.

IV

A swarthy man came into the taproom. He was about 60, hard-looking. I thought his eyes were a trifle too sure of themselves, even arrogant. He seemed not to notice me as he climbed on a barstool.

"The usual, Mr. Dominico?" the bartender asked.

I looked over Dominico. He was lighting an expensive Mexican cigar, which did not help his appearance but probably gave him the prosperous look he wanted. His clothes were expensive, but something about their cut was so far wrong as to be on the farcical side. He looked around as if for an audience and apparently failed to find a worthy one in me. As the bartender served him, he said:

"Got a big deal on. Two diamond salesmen here to sell me. This time I buy 20,000 carats."

So there was competition for Phajol. I wondered if he knew there was another diamond salesman in Copper City. I wondered if Dominico had ever meant to buy Phajol's stock at all. Perhaps he had brought him to Copper City only for the effect he would have on the other salesman, who no doubt represented a reputable company.

"Heard you bought some other diamonds," said the bartender. "Heard you bought some really fine stuff."

ENGAGEMENT RING

Dominico nodded. "Sure, I buy four carat blue-white from Brazil. Finest stone in southwest. Make engagement ring for Teresa."

"I'll say!" said the bartender. "When's the wedding?"

"Next month. What you think, old man like me marry Teresa?" The bartender grinned. "Mr. Dominico, a man's just as old as he feels."

Dominico laughed loudly as if he felt very young. "Teresa here in a minute. She meet friend upstairs. Better make dry martini for Teresa. Make another for her friend."

The bartender did as directed. Half a minute later I heard feminine voices, and almost at once two girls walked into the taproom. One was Pat Phajol. The other was a girl who would have been as good-looking as Pat if she had not showed traces of a tendency to plumpness that would eventually run wild.

"Ah, Teresa," said Dominico in raptures, "you have a drink waiting! And your friend, Miss Phajol—she has a drink waiting. Teresa smiled a phony smile to Teresa smiled a phony smile to Dominico and came forward and tweaked his cheek in a gesture that was a palpable burlesque. Dominico seemed charmed. Evidently he had met Pat. She ignored me.

I was absorbed by the four-carat diamond in the engagement ring on Teresa's second finger. A girl would have to have a lot of nerve to wear a rock like that, but then she would have to have a lot of nerve to marry Mike Dominico. I decided that both would probably have a good deal. Mike would pass on before Teresa's plumpness got the better of her, and Teresa could grow fat on a million dollars.

A youth came into the taproom. His face was flushed; he looked as if he were almost blind-drunk. He strode up to Teresa.

Canadian Shows At Victoria West Park

A den of poisonous snakes and a view of the giant ant eaters are two of the new features of the Royal Canadian Shows, which opens a week-long engagement at Victoria West Park commencing Monday.

The snake den is possibly one of the most spectacular features. Its operator, Pat Mahoney, almost lost an arm when bitten by one of the poisonous reptiles earlier this year.

Many other attractions will be featured in the Midway.

"So there, you are! They told me you had come to the hotel! What's the idea of standing me up, anyway?"

Teresa looked tremendously embarrassed.

"Lee, you have no right to talk like that! I never told you I would meet you! That was all your idea. We have nothing to talk about!"

"Oh, we haven't? We've got lots to talk about! We've got our whole lives to talk about!"

Mike Dominico was looking very stern. He was down off his barstool. He stood about five-six to the youth's husky six-one. He said:

"Get out of here, Norton! I'm tired of you acting like this. Can't you see you're not wanted?"

The youth turned drunkenly on Dominico.

"You keep out of this, you old fossil!" He turned back to Teresa. "You can't make a fool of yourself like this, marrying the old goat!" He laughed his derision as he grasped her hand and held it up so that the huge diamond shone dazzlingly.

LIKE HEADLIGHT

"What a rock! It looks like a headlamp on a locomotive! Do you know what they're saying? They're cracking that Mike bought you the rock so he can cut it up for one of his drills in case he ever gets hard-up for diamonds!"

Lee Norton threw back his head in laughter, but his mirth was choked off as Dominico brought up a right hook from the floor. The youth collapsed like a sack. The bartender came around fast.

"I'll take care of him, Mr. Dominico!" The diamond driller watched with considerable satisfaction as the bartender half-dragged, half-carried the youth outside.

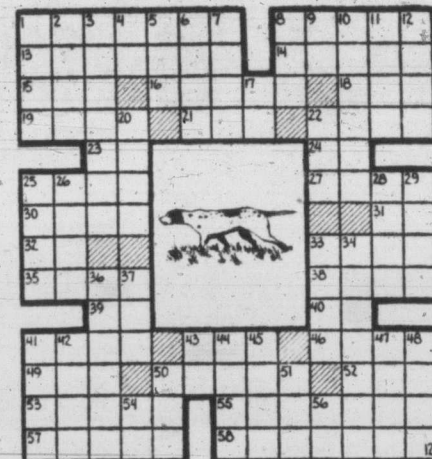

I finished my beer. It was obvious now that Phajol had got his chance to sell Dominico through Pat's friendship with Dominico's fiancée. Obviously Teresa could get the love-sick old man to do anything she wanted, short of sheer folly. The existence of another diamond salesman in the wings reminded me that all was not to be so clear for my client.

I left the taproom. The bartender and his charge were not in sight. I assumed that Lee Norton had been hauled out to await the arrival of a cab. I went up to Phajol's room and rapped on the door. Phajol called. I identified myself, and he opened the door.

VICTORIA DAY IN U.S.

Walla Walla Tribute To Girls' Drill Team

Sept. 2 will be "Victoria, B.C. Day" at Walla Walla, Wash. The city will be honored at its day which will be part of the annual fair at Walla Walla this year. An invitation to the Victoria Girls' Drill Team to take part in this fair was accepted by Norman Foster, founder, director and trainer.

It will mark the first occasion in 26 years that a Canadian organization has taken part in the annual affair.

The drill team will leave here Aug. 30. They will take part in a two-hour concert in the Walla Walla pavilion; a half-hour concert for more than 500 members of the 4-H Club at its annual breakfast; two parades, and exhibition drills on Sept. 1 and 2 in the stadium.

The girls will be honored at a dinner the evening of their arrival under the auspices of the Walla Walla Y.M.C.A. and Y.W.C.A. The U.S. city will contribute $500 toward the expenses of the city-drill team.

In addition to the Walla Walla fair, the girls have also had invitations to festivities in Wenatchee, Port Townsend, Port Angeles and Shelton in the U.S., and Vancouver, Kelowna, Nanaimo and Kamloops in B.C.

Strike Threat To Mayors' Sessions

SASKATOON (CP) — Uncertainty, caused by the possibility of a nationwide railway strike, today surrounded plans for the forthcoming Saskatoon convention of the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities.

The 13th annual conference of Canadian mayors is scheduled to begin Aug. 22—the date set for the planned rail strike.

Mayor J. S. Mills of Saskatoon said he was "not worried," but at the same time was wondering whether the convention would be "hoodooed" again. Originally scheduled for mid-June, it was postponed until August because of the Manitoba flood.

A preliminary list shows more than half of the delegates plan to travel by rail. If the strike threat still is present late next week, some delegates probably will change their plans.

By ART STOTT

People have different ways of honoring a man. Ira Dilworth has received his share of laurels in many forms. The most obvious is the recognition he's accorded across Canada and beyond. But none could have been given more sincerely than a nickname he once had.

In his later years as principal of Victoria High School, the muscle squad—football players, trackmen, basketball stars—called him "Butch." It's incongruous, though it's easily explained. The musclemen liked Ira Dilworth. They were a little uncomfortable about his intellectuality. Calling him "Butch" brought him in on terms they understood. It was their way of showing the sentiment that goes beyond respect. A man can be respected without being considered a "good guy."

Stott

When most men are stretched out on a hospital bed and told to take things easy, they often come back into workaday life with the phrase, "I've been doing some serious thinking." It didn't take a hospital bed to start Dilworth thinking. But he did a little of the conventional in hospital, too. His thoughts helped to fix his conviction that one of the satisfactions in life "is the extraordinary kindness of people." He's particularly grateful for the cheer visitors brought him when he was confined to his room.

IT'S WORTH listening to Dilworth on life's satisfactions. His critical faculties lift his opinions out of the run of the mill platitudes. He believes one of the greatest satisfactions is "the feeling that you have at least begun some things, even if you haven't finished them." It's even better when you may have got some half-finished.

The kingpin of the CBC's international service doesn't expect to achieve the same sort of personal satisfaction he gained from actual teaching, but he finds his job intensely interesting and he finds gratification in the loyalty of his staff.

ONE OF THE satisfactions, he says, is having a piece of work to do—a piece of work that's interesting. Recently he's been busy on the Emily Carr Journals which he's preparing for publication.

Among other things, the hospital taught him that "nothing is so enervating as not having something to do."

In a purely personal way he's found satisfaction in his reading habits. He went through Chaucer again during his enforced idleness. In his opinion: "There's nothing like the 'Canterbury Tales' for convalescent reading. Chaucer writes about people and living. There are passages that are satirical but the social thesis ever in the Summoner's tales is a secondary factor."

You feel the satisfaction of the literature when you talk verse with him. His hand slips to a slim volume and he reads a poem, savoring each phrase, seeing each image that it paints. The freshness of the morning, the glory of sunset clouds, the soaring of the human spirit are rich to him.

THE CRITIC sees decided progress in Canadian writing during the last 20 or 25 years, but he's inclined to think that "we try too hard, and we're self-conscious." He thinks our people are thinking too much on their subjects and reproducing postures instead of reality.

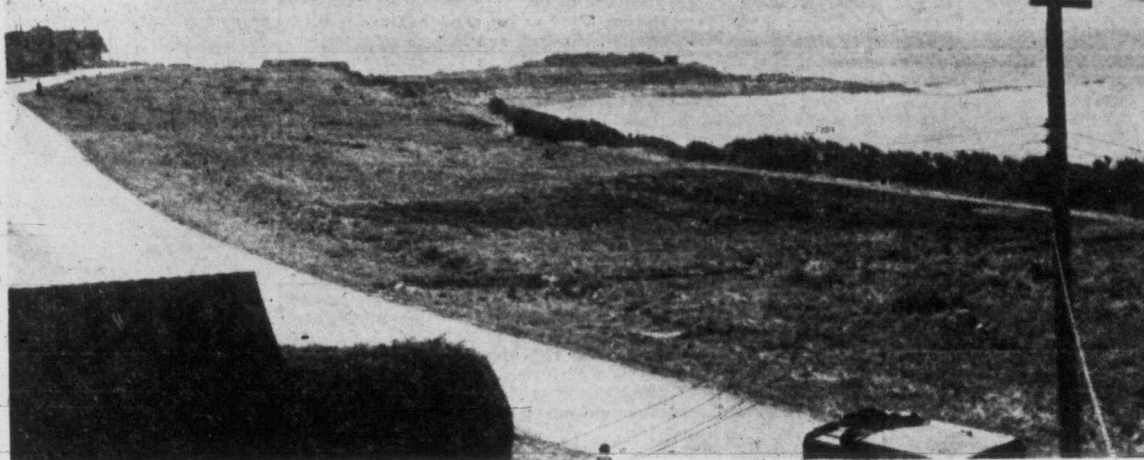

Dilworth doesn't back away from his own criticism. He reports that a French listener to the International Service wrote to him asking why the programs kept mentioning evidences of culture in Canada. The French, the writer remarked, took that for granted in their own country.

In the broader field, the man who left teaching for radio, finds satisfaction in the pulsing surge of international appreciation for the importance and greatness of the country. Outsiders still see romance here, but it's not frothy. There's something solid behind it.

Press, Public Critical Of Appearance

Mayor George urges park committee to study plans for simple, inexpensive rehabilitation of this stretch of Dallas seafront. Press and public alike have criticized its disorderly appearance.

Launch Plans To Change Aspect Of Unkempt Dallas Road Waterfront

Dallas Road seafront from Cook Street to Clover Point will be due for a clean-up if Ald. Duncan D. McTavish, chairman of the city parks committee, and Mayor Percy George have their way.

Both have been concerned over what the mayor has termed the unkempt condition of what is known as the old Rifle Range. Suggestions made by His Worship in a letter to the parks committee will be thoroughly studied at the next meeting. Ald. McTavish said today.

In suggesting that "a plan be set in motion for rehabilitation of the entire piece of seafront with a view of having it appear less disreputable." His Worship cautioned that he had no desire and saw no need of spending a large amount of money. He urged a "simple, inexpensive method."

EARLY CONSIDERATION

"I feel that the parks committee should give this matter early and serious consideration and recommend to the City Council some simple, inexpensive and yet effective method of making the property presentable."

"I feel under the capable and able guidance of our parks superintendent a goodly portion of the present shrubbery, wild or otherwise, could be done away with and the whole thing grassed and suitable paths put through it, thus lending itself to future improvement if thought advisable by subsequent councils."

Mr. Warren said he felt the roadway between Cook and the Clover area should be curbed and guttered, which would mean a certain amount of regrading of the road.

He would like to see a strip of green grass maintained next to the road, footpath along the waterfront and benches installed.

"In landscaping I would not want to see the area embellished with formal trees and shrubs but rather keep it in its natural state," Mr. Warren said.

Questioned later, W. H. Warren, parks superintendent, said approximately $16,000 would be required to improve the area, exclusive of necessary engineering work for guttering and curbing of Dallas Road at that point.

'NEVER ENOUGH'

"We've had this in mind for a long time, but they'd never give us the money at estimate time," Ald. McTavish said. "We could only get $1,000 here and $1,000 there; never enough to do the job."

He expressed pleasure at the mayor's letter and interest in the matter.

Mayor George referred to the concern expressed by editorials in the Victoria Daily Times over the condition of the seafront from Cook to Clover and said: "I must agree we should not let this condition continue."

"Some work should be done that would permit gradual development over the years," the mayor wrote the committee. He suggested that they give "immediate consideration with a view either to commencing some of the work this year or to having the plan endorsed and ready for 1951."

Sales, Police Advice Cancel Barrel Roll

While no official announcement was made by the Lions Club Gorge Barrel Roll Committee concerning the reasons for cancelling the run scheduled to take place Sept. 7, two unofficial reasons were advanced today.

Main reason appears to be the fact the sale of tickets has been considerably slower than expected. It was learned only a small amount had been collected to date from the sale of tickets.

According to a club official: "People just don't seem to be interested in the business of guessing. To most, it's just a waste of time."

Another reason was that club officials had received sound advice and recommendations from the City Police Department that it would be better to close the barrel run than carry it on at present.

POLICE DENY ADVICE However, the police department denied having recommended that the Lions Club "pack up" the run. Originally scheduled last July 4, the barrel run was postponed in order the drive could be made larger and pay the deficit of the Greater Victoria Celebrations Association. It was rescheduled for Sept. 7.

The matter of dropping the run completely was discussed at a Lions Club directors' meeting this week and a special meeting was called Friday night. Out of Friday's meeting came the unexplained announcement of the cancellation.

"Due to circumstances beyond the control of the Victoria Lions Club, the Barrel Roll will not reach its intended conclusion on Sept. 7, 1950."

The notice asked individuals and organizations to cease sales and return tickets to Barrel Roll Headquarters, 1216 Broad Street. The club will contact those who have purchased tickets.

President George Thackray said the club was not prepared to give official reasons for the cancellation at present.

Cost Of Fighting Forest Fires Up $3,000 In Week

Cost of fighting forest fires in the province advanced in the past week more than $3,000 to bring the total expense for the year to $83,225.

B.C. Forest Service records show the forest fire toll on the budget at this time last year was $55,457, and in 1948 was $36,163. There have been fewer fires this year than last (1,022 to 1,298) but the locations and types of fires this season have called for higher expenditures.

WORK POINT OPEN SUNDAY FOR RECRUITS

Local recruiting for Canada's new brigade was comparatively slow on Friday with only 11 applicants reporting at the Work Point enlistment centre.

Today, however, recruiting was a little better with eight volunteers being interviewed by noon and more expected later in the day. The centre will remain open until 10 tonight.

Sgt. J. W. Taylor in charge of recruiting here, announced today the centre will be open Sunday afternoon from 2 to 4 to answer enquiries from prospective applicants.

Motor Vehicle Licenses Up 28,138 In June

There were 28,138 more motor vehicles licensed in the province at the end of June this year than at the same time last year. Of this total, 23,605 were passenger cars.

This was announced today by the Motor Vehicle Branch of the Attorney-General's Department.

During June, 5,575 licenses were issued to bring the total for the license year to 226,875, while in June last year, 5,798 were issued, making the total to the end of the month 198,737.

Other motor vehicle statistics at the end of June, with the corresponding 1949 figures in parentheses, follow: trailer licenses, 5,767 (8,646); chauffeurs' licenses, 54,792 (51,589); drivers' licenses, 288,368 (265,416).

Plumbers Apply For Conciliation

Victoria local of the United Association of Journeymen and Apprentices of the Plumbing and Pipe-Fitting Industry has made application to the Labor Relations Board for a conciliation officer to assist in conducting negotiations with the Master Plumbers' Association.

The union and the employers' association have been unable by themselves to come to terms for a new work agreement. The union is asking that journeymen plumbers be given a 10-cent-an-hour wage increase to bring their hourly rate to $1.75, same as in Vancouver.

Question of two weeks' holiday with pay is also an issue. Appointment of a conciliator is expected to be made by the labor board sometime next week.

Modernizing Mines On Island To Meet Mounting Competition

Canadian Collieries Directors Say Fuel Oil Cuts Sharply Into Market

Despite the fact Vancouver Island operations for the last 18 months have shown a loss, directors of Canadian Collieries (Dunsmuir) Ltd., have decided to proceed with modernization plans at mines both on the island and in Alberta.

Company directors are hopeful that by modernizing and speeding up production, coal will again sell profitably against competitive fuels.

According to S. V. Isaacson, secretary-treasurer of the firm, low-priced fuel oil has cut sharply into the coal market during the last year and a half. It is chiefly the competition from oil that has caused operating losses.

"The low price of fuel oil has had a detrimental effect on the company's coal sales," Mr. Isaacson said. "This, together with the extremely severe winter which practically closed down operations during January and February when sales are normally at their highest level, caused operations at the Vancouver Island mines to be conducted at a substantial loss."

Mr. Isaacson revealed the modernization program was brought forward and that initial work had started some time ago. "During the past year," he said, "a large amount of money has been spent on the first phase of the modernization of our mines, and it is necessary to make further heavy expenditure during the current year on the next phase of this modernization."

"The capital outlay is, unfortunately, necessary at a time when earnings are at a low level."

Agent-General For B.C. Coming

W. A. McAdam, B.C.'s agent-general in London, will arrive in Victoria with Mrs. McAdam next Wednesday or Thursday on a combined business and holiday visit of three months.

Mr. and Mrs. McAdam sailed for Canada aboard the Empress of Scotland Aug. 1 and are expected to be registered at the Empress Hotel for a short time after arrival.

It is understood that, when Mr. McAdam has completed talks with various government departments, he and Mrs. McAdam will make an extended stay at their summer home at Cowichan Bay.

U.S. Visitor Defends City Market Place

A recent suggestion that the Public Market building on Corns Street be torn down and turned into parking lot is meeting with complete disapproval of regular U.S. visitors to Victoria.

One of these, Robert G. Jackson, Desert Hot Springs, California, who has been coming to Victoria for the past 10 years, said the disappearance of a market place would be a definite loss to the city.

"Victoria's public market is equal to the one in Seattle," said the visitor. "I can't understand why they should be considering doing away with the building."

Mr. Jackson said he had read that city aldermen were seeking to find a parking lot for their cars. "Why can't they do like other aldermen in U.S. cities?" he said. "They try to find parking spaces like anybody else."

Mr. Jackson wondered if Victoria had grown so big that it was forgetting the little fellow. "What would those market gardeners do without a market building?" he said.

400 Attend First Hospital Picnic

Victoria Man Gets Church In California

Rev. K. L. Sandercock, rector of St. Mathias Church, well known in Victoria for his active interest in labor and old-age pensioners, has been appointed by Bishop of California K. M. Block as vicar of St. David's parish at Pittsburg, near San Francisco.

Mr. Sandercock plans to leave Victoria with his family on Sept. 5.

In charge of the parish of St. Mathias for the past five years, the minister was one of the founders of the Senior Citizens' Campaign Council—which was largely responsible for getting increased pensions. He also served as chairman on several labor conciliation boards.

Born in Cornwall, England, Mr. Sandercock came to Canada in 1921, and for several years worked in Indian schools. He also was in charge of the parish of Lucky Lake, Sask., and was principal of the Indian residential school at Wabasca in northern Alberta.

He came to B.C. in 1940 and was in charge of the Gulf Islands parish and St. Martin-in-the-Field before taking over St. Mathias.

SHOPPING GUIDE

Got Them Laundry Blues?
Pack 'Em Up In Plastic Bag!

By PENNY SAVER

"Good morning, Mabel, old stick, thought I'd better give you a jingle before I sail for points south. That's right. Two weeks of holidays. Smashing, isn't it? Seems, though, I've been waving people goodbye and hello to people for so long, I thought we'd have snow up to the knees before I finally got started on my own trip. But before I chatter on any further, I must convince you I did do some snooping around this morning.

Do you recall the plastic sprinkle bag you so enviously mentioned seeing in a magazine? Found them right here in town this very day, selling for $1.98. This sprinkle bag and the invention of electricity should go down in history together. All you have to do, my dear, is take the clothes from the washline, pop them into the 17½ by 35-inch bag, close the zippered opening and hang the clothes-filled bag somewhere out of the way.

While you go about your work there will be great things going on inside that plastic bag. For instance, dampness from some articles in the wash will be circulating about in the bag to make them all equally perfect for the iron. Should your wash day prides be bone dry when taken from the line, add a cup of water between each layer of clothes about four cups to a bag and they'll moisten thoroughly. If Sam should decide to take you to a ball game the night planned for ironing, do not panic. Clothes can be kept in the bag from four to five days without becoming mildewed.

Good friend, have you noticed great cobs of corn tempting all at 3 cents for 21 cents... by the bye, saw egg slicers selling for 25 cents. Almost certain they're identical to the ones I saw priced at 45 cents a month or so ago.

For those who still have their two weeks with pay in the offing a couple of suggestions to make traveling gayer are in order. Whisk brooms and small comb and brush cleaners by name. The whisk broom, plastic from head to toe, serves a number of purposes. With gentle persuasion the brush emerges from its handle to show an inch of itself for the dusting of shoes. Provided a few inches further, the brush is ready to chase away particles of dust from clothing or upholstery. Because of its compactness it will sit snugly in a glove compartment as well as a suitcase. Easy to wash and only 98 pennies. The wee comb and brush cleaner takes the form of metal bristles attached to a wooden handle. About 4½ inches long, the brush sells for 25 cents. Toodle, oodle, to you, Mabel, dear, and a happy time to all, especially those who are planning next year's vacation.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

By MYRTLE MEYER ELDRED

One of the counts grown-ups have against the modern generation is that it is "irresponsible." They enumerate their own experiences in youth and reitell how and what they did which contributed to their character and their sense of responsibility. There is little question but that cherished children of this generation lead easier lives; there are fewer real tasks in the home which demand their co-operation; their amusements are ready-made for the most part and they are greatly protected and coddled.

But, there are still plenty of opportunities for children to learn to be responsible individuals; if their parents set themselves the task of helping them to do so. Every child has to learn to be responsible for his own safety, once he has been given the privilege of going out of doors. No mother can be on the alert every minute of the day and children have to learn to stay in the yard and out of the street; to look both ways when they are old enough to cross streets, and on and on. To the extent that they get themselves about safely they are making themselves responsible and removing the task from others.

To be a responsible person is to be willing to accept the consequences of one's acts. We should recognize the limited capacity of children to do this, in all paths of life, and give them only those tasks and those responsibilities which they can fulfill with success. They will then have an increasing desire and capacity to accept more.

Our leaflet No. 49, "Horse Tasks," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request to Myrtle Meyer Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Nanaimo Newlyweds Visit
Island Centres, Victoria

Traveling to various points on the island with Victoria as their destination are Nanaimo newlyweds Margaret Louise Wilfert and Murray George Matthews.

The young couple, who will make their home at Campbell River, were married Aug. 5 at 3:30 in a ceremony of special interest in Rocanville, Sask., and this city. Canon N. S. Noel officiated at the rites in St. Paul's Anglican Church.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Wilfert, 102 Pine Street, Nanaimo, formerly of Victoria, and the groom, only son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Matthews, Rocanville.

A lovely creation of embossed nylon marquisette, the wedding gown accentuated the bride's dark hair. Soft folds on the shoulders were held in place with small pearls, the full skirt was flounced at the hemline with three small bows revealing a tiered lace slip.

A three-quarter veil rippled from a seed pearl headdress, and the bride held a shower of red roses and swainsona.

Interior Shares Interest In Dewdney-Bracken Rites

Church of Our Lord was the picturesque setting for a ceremony at 2 today linking interior and city families.

Principals were Mary Margaret Bracken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. T. Bracken, 688 Falkland Road, and Edgard Dewdney, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Dewdney, Penticton. The groom is a graduate of law from University of British Columbia, and is a member of Phi Kappa Pi Fraternity.

A member of the teaching staff of Penticton High School, the attractive bride was given in marriage by her father in the rites read by Rev. T. Laundry.

Chantilly lace, over gleaming white satin created her wedding dress. Brief sleeves, scalloped at the edges to match the neckline, pointed up the fitted bodice, from which a full skirt swirled into a slight train. Her long mitts were of lace, and lace over satin fashioned a head-hugging helmet crowning a finger-tip veil.

Completing the all-white motif, the bride carried a crescent of gladioli and stephanotis, and wore a pearl necklace.

A delicate blending of pastel tones was seen in the identical costumes worn by Frances Leeming, maid of honor, in yellow, and Joan Griffith, bridesmaid in green. Their gowns were of organdy over taffeta with cap sleeves and bouffant skirts. They carried bouquets of yellow daisies, and wore bands of similar blossoms in their hair.

Thomas J. Halbert was best man. Guests were seated by George Ross Turner, Vancouver and Alan Wright.

In Windermere Hotel, the couple assisted by Mrs. Bracken, wearing soft blue crepe, and Mrs. Dewdney, in palest of blue crepe, received guests.

David McMillan proposed a toast, and a three-tier cake was cut by the newlyweds.

For a motoring trip in Washington and Oregon, the bride donned an apple green tailored doeskin suit, black velvet shoes, purse and helmet hat, and mauve orchid corsage bouquet.

The Dewdney's future home will be in Penticton.

As sweet and fresh as the dainty carnation which perched atop her straw handbag was Margaret Ann Culham, frocked in blue, who came from St. George, Ont., to attend the graduating ceremony. Cadet R. M. Houston, Enderby, B.C., left, and Cadet Archambault, Montreal, tell Margaret that next year they will be in the graduating class. Miss Culham has spent three weeks in the city visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Lieut. and Mrs. Glen Culham.

Summer's Delicate Colorings Seen In Formals At Midshipmen's Dance

A brilliant finale to graduation at Royal Roads yesterday, was the informal dance held in the flag-decked wardroom at the castle, last evening.

Midshipmen and senior cadets, in their immaculate summer white uniforms, entertained a charming young coterie of guests from Victoria and out of town. Their attractive formal gowns reflected every lovely summer hue.

Daphne Collison's peach-toned, strapless, organdy dress was partnered with tiny jacket buttoned in front. The full skirt of her gown was inset with lacy panels and she wore pearls at her throat.

OFF-SHOULDER EFFECT

Gleaming silver accessories accentuated the off-shoulder, cerise taffeta frock, the tiny waist emphasized with bustle-back skirt worn by fair-haired Trudean Ramsay. Her necklace, earrings and matching bracelet were of brilliants.

With her was a Vancouver guest, Garda Marpole, whose ankle-length frock was in white and black organza.

An exquisite rose and pink nylon gown pointed up with diamante clips to match her dainty evening bag, and long rose-toned gloves were worn by Ann O'Halloran, who is spending a month in Vancouver, and returned to the city especially for the occasion.

Dark-haired Maureen Rogers wore gleaming bronze taffeta with tiered skirt and slender shoulder straps over a fitted bodice. Filigree silver bracelet, earrings and necklace completed her costume.

Palest blue organdy mounted over taffeta fashioned Ann Gill's bouffant gown with which she wore pearl earrings and necklace.

Red, White And Blue, Colors Predominate At Royal Roads

By ELIZABETH FORBES

"Remember, it's a navy show today!" said Group Capt. J. B. Millward, commandant, Combined Services College, Royal Roads, when we talked to him in the guests' enclosure at graduation exercises on the college grounds yesterday.

And navy show it was!

From the moment the navy band in trim white round rig uniforms paraded on the ground to the final traditional ceremony when 69 naval cadets were stripped of their lanyards, broke ranks and hurried to greet friends and relatives—as midshipmen.

On the edge of the parade

Choice Of Feminine Guests

Red, white and blue of the White Ensign was repeated too in a few of the attractive summer gowns of feminine guests.

Mrs. E. M. Chadwick, wife of the officer who directed summer training period of the graduating cadets, was trimly smart in a white linen suit, white pillbox hat trimmed with a single red rose and red gloves and shoes.

Mrs. George R. Miles, wife of the commanding officer, H.M.C.S. Naden, chose a red polka dot sheer, with small red straw hat trimmed with white flowers.

Red and white were colors chosen by Mrs. J. D. Prentice, her dress styled in red and white stripes and her off-the-face white hat showing a touch of red in three tiny velvet bows.

Mrs. Millward wore a simply-cut black and white floral silk designed with a fine tracery in green. Crowning her upswept hair-do was a small hat made entirely of soft pink roses.

Mrs. R. W. Murdoch, wife of the commanding officer, H.M.C.S. Beacon Hill, made a charming picture in a gingham silk of yellow, red and brown diagonal stripes, featuring a Mandarin neckline. With this she wore a white pique crownless bonnet on her golden-brown hair.

Stock Markets Firm For Days, Unsettled As Trade Week Ends

By FORBES RUDE

Canadian Press Business Editor

Stock markets were unsettled as the trading week closed, dropping off a bit Friday after general firmness in the preceding days.

They reflected the uncertain international situation, as they have done since the Korean fighting started. On one hand, there is confidence in continued high business activity, and on the other there is some apprehension over what a war economy might bring in the way of controls.

Business knows that whatever happens, it is going to be busy and will have to meet heavy demands for production—so it proceeds to get ready. But the investor doesn't know how much money business will make out of all this activity.

Toronto Stock Exchange was closed Monday for the civic holiday, but other markets showed strength in quiet trading, with industrial and rails showing best.

The advance continued Tuesday, but dropped off in later trading. Wednesday was again strong. Selling pressure reduced early gains Thursday and the softness continued Friday.

On the week Toronto indices based on representative stocks, showed the following changes:
Industrials up 9.70 at 247.01;
golds down 1.96 at 77.35; base metals up 3.56 at 127.76; western oils up 1.92 at 79.28.

Changes in Montreal averages were:
Banks up 0.36 at 30.81; utilities up 1.4 at 79.3; industrials up 7.6
at 159.7; combined up 5.5 at 132.9; papers up 17.95 at 497.97;
golds off 3.03 at 52.6.

In New York the Associated Press average of 60 stocks advanced .7 to 77.4.

This Is Designed To A-Maze You

THERE'S only one door to this labyrinth designed by Julian Gerbet. Whether you use it as an entrance or an exit, the probability is that you'll get lost inside, for it offers a challenging problem.

Suppose you start inside, at the central chamber (R). Take a pencil and draw a line to denote your route as you try to reach the exit. Can you make it without running into dead-ends and having to double back over any part of it?

Brain Teaser

THIS is not a leap year, but would it be if it had begun on Sunday and would end Monday?

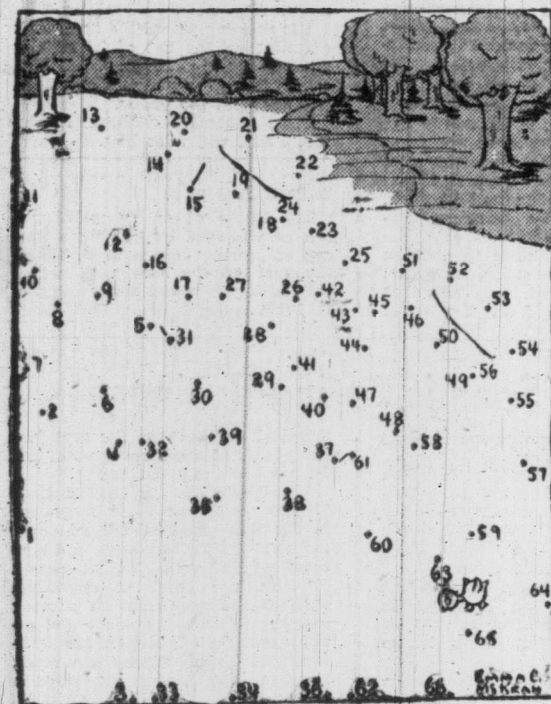

Answer: Yes, for it would have 366 days.

Tongue Testers

Repeat rapidly aloud and see if you can keep from tripping your tongue:

Peter pursued a big black pig pup up Parliament Street. Chop shops stock cheap chops.

This Is Our Doorside Queen

POETIC tribute is paid by William Cullen Bryant in An Invitation to the Country to the subject of this dotograph. Make the picture appear by starting with a pencil at dot 1 and continuing an unbroken line from dot to dot consecutively. When they have reached dot 66 and completed the drawing, junior readers can enjoy coloring it appropriately with crayons or colored pencils. What is pictured?

Answer: Dido.

Anagrambles

TO SOLVE these, use the letters of the given word plus the extra letter to form a new word of entirely different meaning. For example, LOVES plus H is shovel.

1. CRUST plus I is _____?
2. GRADE plus G is _____?
3. RENTAL plus N is _____?
4. SAUCE plus C is _____?
5. YEAST plus F is _____?
6. LITTER plus P is _____?
7. ABLE plus Z is _____?
8. DROWNED plus E is _____?
9. GALLED plus E is _____?
10. CRIED plus P is _____?

Solutions: 1 Rustic, 2 Dasher, 3 Lantern, 4 Acorn, 5 Altered, 6 Trifle, 7 Wicker, 8 Woefully, 9 Altered, 10 Trifle, 11 Bitter.

Cubing The Cake

MRS. BROWN baked a perfectly square gingerbread. Then because everybody in the family likes the chocolate icing she makes, she iced the big cube of cake on five sides, that is except the bottom. Mrs. Brown then cut the cake into 27 equalized cubes, for the tea tray.

How many of the cubes had icing on three sides, two sides, one side, no sides?

Solution: Eight had icing on three sides, 12 on two sides, six on one side only one cube had no icing.

Find The Numbers

Fuller figures told a fellow puzzlist, "I have a new telephone number. Added to my automobile license number, the total is 7,254. Subtract my telephone number from my license number, the result is 1,472. Now you know my new telephone number." What is it?

Answer: License, four three six three; Phone number, two eight nine.

Grave Question

THE following inscription actually appears on a gravestone in the churchyard of Denham, Buckinghamshire, England. It contains an error. See how long it takes you to detect it.

Sacred to the memory of
Mr. EDWARD FOUNTAIN
Of This Parish, Who Died
On the 28th Oct. 1823;
AGED 66 YEARS
Also of
Mrs. SARAH FOUNTAIN
HIS WIDOW, WHO DIED ON THE 23rd SEPTEMBER, 1812,
AGED 82 YEARS

Solution: If Mrs. Sarah Fountain died before her husband how could she be his widow?

It's A Challenge

By JESSIE R. SMITH

HARRY'S coat had rubbed against his slate as he returned from school, with the result that many of the figures in his long division problem had become rubbed out. Putting an x to represent where a figure had become rubbed out, the problem was like this:

215 x 7x6x11xxx

x5x5

xxx

He remembered that the result was without a remainder and being a clever boy, he soon filled in all the figures that had been rubbed out. What was the original problem? From the clues you can deduce it.

Solution: Three seven one nine five divided by two fifteen is one seven nine.

What's Wrong With This Picture?

The artist purposely made 37 mistakes in this drawing to provide a test of the attention to detail. Time yourself, and number the errors as you locate them. Spotting 30 within 10 minutes is a good score.

IS VICTORIA ATTRACTING INDUSTRY?

JUST WHAT VICTORIA IS DOING, AND SHOULD DO, TO ENCOURAGE NEW INDUSTRY TO THE CITY IS discussed in a challenging article by Harry Young on page 3. The scene above is of Ogden Point docks with big milled timber being loaded from a scow. Logging is Vancouver Island's biggest industry, and many businessmen would like to see less lumber going out in the raw state and more departing as the finished article.—(Bill Halkett Picture)

SCHOOLBOYS ENJOY BEING FILM ACTORS

It was half-day holiday at Rugby School in England when a film unit came along and asked the boys to go into period costume to make a rugby match scene for their film, "Tom Brown's School Days." The boys loved it, and played the game according to the rules in vogue during Tom Brown's days. It was at Rugby School that the game of rugby originated.

Britain Prepares Civil Defence To Meet Atom Bomb Threat

By MICHAEL DAVIE

IN AN ATTEMPT to put the atom bomb into perspective and outline the best ways of dealing with it the Home Office have issued a manual of atomic warfare. It is based on the results of studies made by the British mission which investigated atomic bombing at Hiroshima and Nagasaki.

The introduction to the manual stresses that methods of countering the atom bomb can certainly be found. Of the three main effects of atom bombs—only one—the radiological effect—is new. The other two, heat flash and blast, are not new, although they have their own special characteristics when produced by an atom bomb.

The causes of casualties from an atomic explosion, according to experience gained in Japan, would be in the following proportion: heat flash 20-30 per cent; radioactivity 15-20 per cent, and injuries and burns caused by blast, 50-60 per cent.

Estimating the possible casualties in a British city the manual states that if an attack came without warning they would be formidable. The British mission reckoned that in these circumstances as many as 50,000 people might be killed in a typical city with a population density of 45 persons to the acre. But if adequate defence precautions are taken "the lives lost could be reduced to a fraction of the number estimated by the British mission."

FEELS WARM AT FIVE MILES

Dealing with heat flash, the manual says that the heat rays sent out by a bomb are so intense that at five miles they produce a feeling of bodily warmth. The flash only lasts about a second but is capable of igniting fires simultaneously over a wide area. The atom bomb is, therefore, a powerful fire-raising weapon.

The effect of the flash on unprotected people will be severe. If there were no warning of the bomb, heat flash would probably cause the death of 20 to 30 per cent of all fatal casualties—as it did in Japan. But, if there is enough warning for people to take cover, the number should be greatly reduced. Protection against the flash is relatively easy; it will be given by any form of building and even clothing, especially if it is of a light rather than a dark color, will give the skin underneath some protection.

HAVE NO VALUE

Outlining the steps to be taken against the effects of radiation by any efficient civil defence service, the manual states that the normal protective devices used against gases (protective clothing and ointment) have no value against the immediate radioactive dangers of atomic bombs.

Suitable clothing and equipment for those who have to pass through a heavily contaminated area (that is, after the immediate effects of radiation are spent) would be respirators, denim overalls, gloves and gumboots.

It should be a rule, the manual goes on, that only persons on duty are allowed in a contaminated area. Those who must stay must not carry any food or drink, and would have to be given their food by mobile canteens, carrying supplies in airtight containers.

SHELTERS ARE SAFE

Dealing with the effects of atomic bomb blast, the manual says that about 70 per cent of all casualties would probably suffer from some sort of visible physical injury. But protection against blast would not present an insuperable difficulty. Japanese shelters, even those of poor construction, stood up well and underground shelters gave complete protection.

The British mission estimated that if a bomb burst high over a British city the houses of about 400,000 people would be damaged. Some 100,000 people would need to be re-housed "creating a very big civil defence problem."

The effect on public utility services would probably be confined to damage above ground. Gas and water mains, and sewers, should be all right.

Big Timbers Topple To New Weapon

HEAVY eight-foot diameter steel balls are being rolled over Montana forest lands, toppling huge trees like so many bowling pins.

These four and one-half ton balls are an important part of a weird new method devised for clearing timber lands. It's dubbed the "high ball," and it is proving just the answer for persons plagued with the problem of clearing land as economically as possible.

Some months ago, lumbermen S. L. Wixson and J. H. Trisdale, of Redding, Calif., received a contract from the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation for clearing out 7,210 acres of burned-over land.

Using lots of imagination, the two hit on the idea of using a pair of diesel tractors to drag up to 500 feet of two-inch wire cable through the burned-over area, snagging down all the trees and brush caught in the loop.

Then came a contract for clearing the rest of the reservoir area. This land had been logged over. That meant stumps, and stumps can catch cables easily. So the contractors tried out eight-foot steel balls, to keep the cables four feet above ground to prevent snagging on stumps.

STEEL PLUS SAFETY

The cables are attached to each side of the big ball. Each of two tractors in the team is equipped with winches. When all the cable is let out, the tractors are anchored against trees or stumps. Then the cable is reeled in, with the ball holding the line high enough to escape the stumps.

The cable and ball are brought crashing through the timber as fast as a man can walk. Timber, brush and burned-over snags fall as though being hit by a hurricane. Removal of the stumps is not necessary since the land will be covered by water eventually.

Contractors are jubilant about the success of their new method. It's speedy and cost-saving. Working on fairly level ground, two tractors, 500 feet of line and one steel ball have pulled down everything on nearly 200 acres in four hours. However, a much better average, considering all types of landscape, is 100 acres per eight-hour shift.

The new method offers safety, too. The tractor operator is well clear from the area in which trees are being pulled down. So terrific is the tug that most tall trees are uprooted, thereby assuring sawable timber in good condition for the sawmill.

PIPELINE FROM IRAQ

Reads Like Story In Arabian Nights

By UNCLE RAY

SIX MILLION feet of steel pipe went into the making of the Iraq pipe lines. The figure gives an idea of the great task which was finished with success.

Iraq is bordered on one side by Arabia, and on another side by Persia, or Iran. Turkey and Syria also touch Iraq.

Through Iraq flow two rivers which played a big part in ancient history. They are the Tigris and the Euphrates, and on their banks the main cities of ancient Babylonia were built.

IS MODERN KINGDOM

Present-day Iraq is a kingdom which is of minor importance in the world's life, except for its oil. It is the home of people of Turkish, Arab, Armenian and Persian descent. Its chief city is Bagdad.

There is enough oil in Iraq to supply several million tons to the world's markets each year. The output is not large compared to that of the United States, Venezuela or Russia, but it provides more oil than many other countries.

A good market for Iraq oil existed in Europe, but what about moving it? It could not be transported by camels across the deserts of Arabia or Syria, and there were no highways which could be used by trucks.

The need for transport of oil brought the start of the Iraq pipe lines. The work was begun in 1931, and it went on for three years.

WORKED IN HOT SUN

Thousands of men were set to work laying the pipes. They had to labor in the hot sun, and it was a great problem to keep them supplied with water.

Trench-digging machines were employed in performing some of the work, but much of it could be done only by hand labor.

The two pipes were laid side by side for 165 miles. Then they parted; one was led across Syria to a seaport city, the other across Palestine to the city of Haifa.

Hundreds of miles of those pipe line routes lie across deserts. How could all that steel pipe be taken out across the waste lands?

TRUCKS WERE USED

Trucks—large motor trucks—supplied the answer. The trucks were fitted with extra-broad wheels and tires, so they would not sink deeply into the sand. Into them were loaded pieces of pipe from 36 to 40 feet long. About 127,000 tons of pipe were used in the project.

The length of one of those Iraq pipe lines is 300 miles. The other is 320 miles long.

Gravity may do all the work in moving oil in the case of a short pipe line, but a long one, over an up-and-down route, needs pumps. Pumping stations were built about 100 miles apart, and a 500 h.p. engine was placed in each of them.

OIL MOVED THROUGH

When, at last, the two pipe lines were finished, oil was sent through them. It was found that between them they could handle more than 11,000 tons of oil per day. The oil flows through pipes in the harbors, and about 350 tons of it can be placed aboard a tanker in an hour.

In olden times, the stories of the "Arabian Nights" were invented. There was magic in the tales, including a flying carpet and a wonderful lamp.

Today scientists and inventors have made "magic" of many kinds, and not the least is the transport of oil across deserts.

SAFEST INDUSTRIES

Safest industry in 1947 was listed as communications. The electrical equipment industry had the second lowest accident frequency rate among 40 major industries. Steel was third.

BUTTERFLY EARS

STILL IN FRONT—Whirlaway's progeny placed Mr. Longtail on the list of 20 leading sires of 1949.

Whirlaway Off To Join Europe's Famous Stud

WHIRLWAY is going to France. Owner Warren Wright makes this rather startling announcement.

Reversing the usual procedure, the famous stallion will be exported in accordance with a three-year lease to Marcel Boussac. The world's leading money-winner from July, 1942, through June, '47, will stand at Boussac's fabulous Chantilly stud.

While hundreds of foreign-bred studs have been brought to this country down through the years, an American-bred stallion going to Europe is a rarity.

Boussac's desire for Mr. Longtail goes back to his visit on this side in 1947, according to The Thoroughbred Record. Boussac was much impressed with the son of Elenheim II and Dustwhirl when he went to Calumet Farm, hard by Lexington, to inspect the sires. He had him led out for inspection a second time, as he remarked, "C'est pour moi," which indicated a definite choice.

Whirlaway is to stand at the nursery which produced the winners of the 1950 English Derby and Epsom Oaks. It was at this farm that Boussac bred, raised and developed the great Goya II, Priam II, Hierocles, Ardan and Djeddah, recent imports by American syndicates.

Mr. Longtail, known to millions in every part of the United States, was the leader of his division at two, three and four, the triple crown winner of 1941. His earnings amounted to $561,161. He started 60 times, won 32, placed in all other efforts but four.

With the aid of a one-eyed blinker, Trainer Ben Jones cured him of running wide just in time to capture the Kentucky Derby in 2:01 2/5 for the mile and a quarter, which remains the track record.

Whirlaway has also been successful at stud. Through the end of last year, he had 52 winners from 71 starters. These included seven stakes winners: Dart By, Duchess Peg, Going Away, Scattered, Whirl Flower, Whirl Some and Whirling Fox. Eight other sons and daughters were fourth or better in stakes. Another son, the two-year-old Great Whirl, ran third in the colt division of the National Stallion Stakes this year.

Whirlaway fillies won or finished among the leaders in almost every major filly stake in America.

His progeny placed the little dark chestnut on the list of 20 leading sires of 1949.

Whirlaway always has been popular with the public.

The thousands of visitors to Calumet Farm will miss him.

Dinner On Conveyor Belt Speeds Eating Business

TOM LEWIS, a British engineer, was so annoyed at having to wait an hour for his lunch in a busy Manchester restaurant that he spent the time devising ways and means of speeding up the feeding process.

Result is a conveyor belt cafeteria which he claims will double the number of customers handled during rush hours. In fact his eating set up is not unlike the escalator in the Hudson's Bay store—but, of course, the customers move along on the level.

"My invention is just like an ordinary cafeteria with the difference that the customer is slowly moved from one end to the other on a seat fixed to a moving belt," said 41-year-old Mr. Lewis.

"The counter keeps pace and at given intervals the customer is served with the next course. What is most important, there is no waiting."

"After 20 minutes, the meal over, the customer is gently but firmly

"brushed off" because the seat just disappears at the turning point and travels back to the start."

Tom Lewis and his helpers timed 700-800 people at their luncheons to fix the speed of the conveyor cafeteria which, he hopes, will help cater for Festival of Britain crowds.

"With the cafeteria operating, staff can concentrate on serving and people cannot remain and occupy tables while others are waiting," he said. "Many countries, including America, are interested in the idea."

Whiz Kids Recall Phillies Day Of Glory

Won Sole Pennant 35 Years Ago

By HARRY GRAYSON

THE Whiz Kids are now quite the Philadelphia story. It's been a long time between drinks. You have to go back 35 years for the only pennant on the National League side in the big town on the Schuylkill.

William F. Baker, former police commissioner of Brooklyn, and with no more knowledge of baseball than a desultory fan's, took over the Phillies in 1913. He had made a loan to Bill Locke with which the secretary of the Pirates purchased control. Locke died suddenly and Baker moved in to protect his investment.

Baker was grumpy, cold, parimonious, by his actions interested in the Phillies and baseball only as a means of piling up a personal fortune.

Yet it was under his ownership that the Phillies had their last days of glory and until now the only successful run in the 67 years they have been in the National League.

The Phillies won their lone flag in 1915 with an infield and outfield largely put together with winter trades and the acquisition of Shortstop Dave Bancroft from the Portland club of the Pacific Coast League.

The Phils of that year had one of the great batteries of all time—Grover Cleveland Alexander and Bill Killefer.

Tall, freckle-faced, sandy-haired Alexander the Great did it with a sidearm curve, fast ball and amazing control. Ol' Pete won 31 games that trip, turned in 36 complete jobs, four of them one-hitters. He struck out 241, had an earned-run average of 1.22.

The battling star of the 1915 Phils was Gavy Cravath, now justice of the peace at Laguna Beach in southern California. Cactus Cravath, who six times led the league in that department, hit the then remarkable total of 24 home runs.

He was the forerunner of the slugging-eta that introduced Babe Ruth.

It was likeable Pat Moran's first year as a manager. He had previously coached under Reddy Dooen.

Beauty Bancroft made the infield. Dode Packert was a fine centre field. Fred Luderus was an accomplished first baseman and hitter. Bert Niehoff was the second baseman. Milton Stock, now coaching the Dodgers and father-in-law of the Giants' Eddie Stanky, played third. The other outfielders, in addition to Cravath and Packert, were George Whitted and Beals Becker.

Sharing the pitching with Alexander were the left-handed Eppa Rixey and Erskine Mayer, George McQuillan, Dut Chalmers and Al Demaree.

Alexander beat the Red Sox, 3-1, in the first game of the World Series, then the American Leaguers won the next three by the identical score of 2-1, and the fifth, 5-4.

With the Sox was a recruit left-hand pitcher named Babe Ruth. He appeared in only one game, the first one as a ninth-inning pinch-hitter for Pitcher Ernie Shore, and was retired.

Even then they knew the Bam could hit, you see.

The Phillies finished second in 1916 and '17, dropped to sixth in '18 and in '19 practically took a lease on the cellar.

From then on, until the startling rejuvenation under young Bob Carpenter, the Phillies were the joke team of the majors.

Next: Stars for sale.

ONE BRIEF SPELL OF FAME

Nazis Asked For It, But Destruction Of Munich Can Satisfy Nobody

By PAUL GALLICO

MUNICH—Living even a short while in a semi-destroyed city leads one to all kinds of reflections upon life, people and human nature, which same it is a pleasure for me to be able to convey to you in this manner because then it is off my chest.

For instance, the thought came to me here among the cracked and shattered buildings that I have been aboard this planet for a little over half a century and that when at the age of 10 I made my first trip to Europe, visiting London, Brussels, Rotterdam, Paris, Munich, Berlin, Florence, Vienna, any many others, amongst them some of the most beautiful cities containing the loveliest buildings and churches in the world, there was not a single wrecked, damaged or destroyed edifice in all of Europe with the exception of the legitimate ruins that came down to us from Graeco-Roman civilization.

Today all of these great centres of architectural poetry in stone, wrought by the hand of man, are broken, battered or unrecognizable. In the scant 50-odd years that I have been a fellow passenger aboard this roaring planet, and starting with the calm beauty and sweet perfection of building at its best, man has created such a hell's mess here as must be seen to be credited.

WHERE IS PROGRESS?

The point that all of this brings up to my mind is that you wouldn't exactly call this human progress, would you?

Another set of reflections stirred by wandering about what remains of this ancient stronghold of baroque architectural beauty has to do with vengeance and is probably good for me, for only weak human beings entertained and delight in thoughts of revenge.

But during the war, after I had seen London, Coventry, Plymouth, Bath and all the crumbled and shattered French cities, I had such an anger against the German people that I used to look forward to the day when I would witness some of the counter destruction and havoc wrought on German soil and could walk in a knocked-down German city.

I am happy to report for the sake of the state of the human soul, that it doesn't quite work out that way. There is no pleasure or delight to be had in visiting a shambles of a city such as Munich and viewing the results of the stupidity and savagery of its collective inhabitants.

For you cannot escape the thought that these beautiful works of art in structure and building that might have given pleasure to the eye and uplifted the spirit for centuries to come, committed no crime against anyone, and, having been raised by all that is lofty and soaring in the human being, to exist in innocence and only for the good of all, were then levelled by the brutish and degraded to be found among those same human beings.

GERMANS ARE BLIND

The destruction was actually wrought by British and American boys, but only the Germans are blind to the fact that these British and American boys would never have left their homes and peaceful callings to travel overseas, climb into flying machines and drop high explosives onto a city most of them had never seen before if they had not been called forth by the Nazis and their program of conquest, destruction and mass murder.

One does not like the Germans any better, revisiting them for the first time since the war, and five years after its conclusion, but one's heart does bleed for the damage done to the beauty of one of their finest cities, and there it is.

There is nothing so ugly as the shell and fragments of an exploded building, and I suppose it is God's punishment visited upon these people to make them and their children live and grow up surrounded by ugliness instead of beauty.

And then you say to yourself, but there were generations of Bavarians and Germans who grew up and lived surrounded only by beauty, and what good did it do them? Did it prevent them from setting forth to spread destruction, ugliness and corpses over other people's property?

Not at all. For here in Munich is where the foul and filthy philosophy and creed of Nazism was born and found fertile soil in which to take root.

BASIL FINDS EASY JOB IN HOLLYWOOD

Basil Ruysdael spent 40 of his 62 years looking for an easy way to make a living. Then he tried movie acting.

"Better than a pension," he said today, "A trifle hard on the feet sometimes, but it's never hard on the mind. Nothing like it, I'm seriously considering it as my life work—if you can call it work."

Ruysdael was an opera singer, an airplane pilot, a voice coach, a stage actor, an electrical engineer, inventor, radio writer and radio announcer. They all tired him out.

The job is just the kind he's been looking for, he said, since he got his first steady work at age 22 as a Metropolitan Opera basso, profundo.

Let's Make 'Welcome To Industry' Our New Motto

Victoria Cannot Live On Tourist Trade Alone

By HARRY YOUNG

Every now and again James R. Davies, secretary of the Industrial Bureau of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce is asked by manufacturers for factory floor space available in Victoria.

"These manufacturers are usually found to be toying with the idea of starting new industry on Vancouver Island, and all they require is a little encouragement and practical assistance.

"Unfortunately," says Mr. Davies, "only too often I am unable to give an immediate or indeed satisfactory reply to these queries."

He instanced a recent case in which a manufacturer wanted a specified number of square feet to set up a new light industry in Victoria. "I am hoping eventually to be able to give him some encouragement, but these things all take time."

There is need for closer co-operation between the Chamber of Commerce and the real estate agencies about available factory space. At present too much time is lost hunting out information.

APATHY EXISTS

It is cases such as these which cause people to ask, "Is Victoria doing enough to attract new industries to the city?"

The indications are that it is not. The Industrial Bureau of the local Chamber of Commerce is doing the best to rectify affairs, but it must have co-operation.

One young man who has recently set up a new secondary industry in Victoria is succeeding after having overcome tremendous initial difficulties.

He points out that while there are many wealthy and retired people in Victoria few are willing to come forward to risk their capital in some new local venture.

Retired people naturally enough are looking for a gilt-edged investment rather than a speculation in a new business, but their caution means that the ambitious young businessmen of Victoria can hope for little local backing.

INDUSTRY NEEDS HELP

The formation of an organization on Vancouver Island similar to the Scottish Industrial Estates would be a tremendous asset.

The Scottish organization came into being during the depression years when heavy industries were sagging and unemployment was heavy.

The Scottish Estates bought their ground for factory development, even before they found a prospective customer they built modern airy factories easily converted to any light industrial purpose.

When they had their estates on the way towards completion, manufacturers quickly became interested, and not a single factory built on spec failed to find an owner. Indeed, such estates as Hillington near Glasgow and Newhouse in North Lanarkshire are busy hives of entirely new industries.

The manufacturers who write to Victoria for factory space would probably be over here on the next boat if Secretary James Davies was able to reply that modern factories with all services laid on were already planned out for them.

Victoria has one of the most important of all inducements for the prospective industrialist. It has a reserve of labor.

NEEDS MORE EMPLOYERS

This is what Charles A. Mudge, manager of the National Employment Service Office in Victoria says:

"Victoria is badly in need of new job outlets for its population. Only in heavy primary industry is there any shortage of labor. We have many people on our books who are looking for semi-skilled jobs in secondary industries. These people, both male and female, are either not quite fit enough for heavy industry or belong to the over-age class which makes up a big percentage of the population.

(Note—Industrial Statistics for 1949 show that of an estimated 115,450 population for Greater Victoria almost 29,000 are over 54 years of age.)

DEFEATISM REIGNS

The trouble with Victoria is that there is too evident a spirit of defeatism.

Even today there are plenty of folk around the city who say "Victoria will never be an industrial town. What else has it to offer but a pleasant climate, lovely homes and scenic charm? Isn't it better to preserve all that and concentrate on the tourist business?"

The Provincial Department of Trade and Industry has a sharp answer to that obsolete line of thought. The department estimates show that whereas tourists brought $5,000,000 to the Victoria district in 1949 (this is only an estimate, of course) the sum of $27,189,765 was paid out in wages by Victoria industries.

While this is true, there is also no doubt that manufacturers are discouraged from setting up business in Victoria because they have to import practically all of their raw material, and then except for the limited Vancouver Island market, have to export the finished articles to the mainland.

The chief of one Victoria secondary industrial concerns says that his firm is handicapped because there are no primary heavy mechanical industries on the island such as automobile construction or household appliance manufacturers which secondary industries can supply with small parts and fittings.

SMALL INDUSTRIES

Yet in the opinion of Charles Mudge it is the small industries of Greater Victoria that provide the district with its stability. "We could do with lots more of them," he says, and goes on to point out that Victoria is never likely to be thrown into desperate straits such as New Westminster was last winter when the severe winter shut down its one and only major industry—milling.

Apart from the defeatists there is a growing section of the responsible community that believes Victoria can overcome all its difficulties about attracting new industry to the city.

Just what industry means to a city may be judged from the following figures:

A new industry employing 150 family heads will provide a yearly payroll of $300,000; economic support of 1,000 people; 300 houses; 20 retail stores; 300 cars and food products from 120 farms of 50 acres each.

HAS A PROGRAM

Mr. Bill Mearns of the B.C. Electric who is the president of the Industrial Bureau of the Chamber of Commerce is alive to the needs of the city. He is a lively, progressive sort of chap, and his program of activity for his bureau is summarized under the following four heads:

(1) Making a list of existing industrial assets in the Victoria area; (2) Publicizing these assets as fully as possible and where needed applying corrective action;

(3) Assisting existing industry (it being easier, cheaper and more important to save an existing industry than attracting a new one); (4) Finding finances to keep the scheme in operation.

This is an excellent start, but it must be pursued with the utmost vigor.

CO-OPERATION NEEDED

What is wanted most of all is the co-operation of the community from the men who dictate policy, at City Hall to the smallest consumer.

There must be a policy which will let manufacturers know that they will be welcomed and given practical help and advice. They should be told that there's suitable industrial sites awaiting them and that no difficulties will be placed in their way.

Finally we must get rid of the attitude publicised only the other week in the Island Events. That contemporary said:

"Victoria's purpose is to remain a home city with a determination not to sacrifice itself on the wheels of industry."

COMMIES TELL EUROPE U.S. IS STARVING

Crooner Jack Smith, home from a summer tour of Europe, said today Communists are quoting lyrics from "If I Knew You Were Coming, I'd Have Baked a Cake" to prove Americans are starving under "capitalistic domination."

"They reprinted the song in an east Berlin paper," the singer said, and publicized it as what American heiresses with extra flour rations sing to trap hungry bachelors into marriage.

The Reds are patting themselves on the back for dreaming up a new gimmick, Smith added, and are gobbling up even our most innocuous songs to convince the masses in occupied Europe what a heck of a hungry life they'd lead under American democracy.

Sophisticated, youthful clothes for the career girl are the hallmark of designer Emily Wilkens. Cotton velvet in beaver brown (left) fashions an afternoon dress touched with black braid. Beige corduroy is used (centre) for a suit with box jacket and straight skirt which is teamed with black linen blouse. A daytime dress in moss green wool (right) has black leather contour belt.

Fall Skirts To Be Shorter, Narrower

By GAILE DUGAS

FRESH silhouettes in fall clothes for the youthful sophisticate are marked by the straight, narrow look and by shorter skirts. Boxy jackets, middy jackets and shirt-tail jackets are done in corduroy, velveteen, wool jersey or yarn-dye flannels and worn with slim skirts.

Velvet, braid and ribbing touches provide texture contrast in trimming for straight, slim dresses. Charcoal gray is a strong color, as are the warm, tawny shades and the sharp shades—tangerine, gold and pumpkin.

Emily Wilkens, who once designed for teen-agers, is now doing clothes for the young sophisticate. Typical of her fall collection is a beige corduroy suit with boxy jacket and straight skirt. She teams this suit with a black linen blouse for color contrast. The blouse has a tucked bib front.

A daytime dress from her collection is in moss green sheer wool. Simple and straight, it has a black leather contour belt, high neck, tiny collar, and tight sleeves.

A third dress from this designer is in beaver brown cotton velveteen, touched with black braid, for afternoon wear. The molded bodice is coupled with a slightly lower waistline. Neckline is high, with small collar, and sleeves are three-quarter length.

FIRST TEETH IMPORTANT

Poor eating habits, speech defects and crooked, mis-shapen permanent teeth are part of the price that may have to be paid for premature loss, through neglect, of the baby teeth. Your child's first teeth are important and should be looked after carefully.

Don't Scrub Don't Rub On Lingerie

By ALICIA HART

MANY women exercise a double standard in caring for their underthings. Although they would never think of wearing sheer lingerie a second day, they allow their garter belts or girdles to go for weeks or even months without washing.

One reason for this neglect of foundation garments by otherwise dainty and fastidious women is the difficulty of washing clothes that are boned, metal-mounted, or stiffened for reinforcement. Because it can be an irksome chore, the task is delayed.

It's better to wash frequently, before grime and dyes from dark clothes get too well set in the fabric. Strenuous scrubbing will wear out the material and cause the garment to lose its shape. For stubborn spots use a fingernail brush; there's no need to skin your knuckles on this job.

Lukewarm water is best. Repeat the sudsing if necessary, rather than subject these clothes to a steaming bath.

Boneless garments may be tossed into the washing machine, provided they stay in the soapy water no longer than three minutes.

Best rule for wringing is: don't. Gently press the water out and roll the garment in a bath towel to absorb any remaining moisture.

There are two acceptable drying methods. The clothes should either be individually pressed into shape and spread to dry on a thick towel, or else they should be smoothed carefully and hung lengthwise on a line.

'Right Woman' Must Understand Husband

By RUTH MILLETT

HOW are you going to be the "right woman" for your husband all through the years unless you study him now and then with this important question in mind: "What does he really want out of life?"

The "right woman" for a man is the woman who can best help him find what he is looking for, whether it is peace and security, business or professional success, social acceptance, or whatever.

And what a man most wants from life is likely to change from one period of his life to another. That makes the job of finding out what he wants one that is never finished.

And another thing that makes it even more difficult is that a lot of men would never admit to anybody just what is really most important in their scheme of things.

That's why Mrs. B is such a poor wife for Mr. B. A poor boy who made good professionally, Mr. B not only doesn't admit to Mrs. B that he would like to make good socially, too, but he goes to the other extreme and pretends he thinks social life is "stupid."

AFRAID OF FAILING

The truth is, he's scared of failure. But Mrs. B doesn't know that, so they lead a lonely life.

If she knew her husband better, she would help him get what he really wants. But instead of studying him as a person, she merely accepts as fact whatever appears to be true.

And so it is in many, many marriages. A wife misses her chance to be "the right woman" simply because she has no real idea of what her husband wants out of life or in what ways she could help him get what he wants.

The "right woman" is nothing more or less than the woman who understands a man's needs and ambitions and does all that she can to help him get the things he wants.

Neat Job Gives Boy-Girl Suit Conversion

A SNIP of the scissors and a little ingenuity can transform "hand-me-downs" for children into garments which have both style and individuality.

One of the most common "hand-me-down" problems is that of changing a small boy's bobby suit into a dress for his sister. It's solved by first snipping off the crotch tab, then cutting away excess fabric and finishing the hem. Since little girls like fitted waists, a gather can be placed at each side with nylon elastic.

The clever touches can come from scrap-bag remnants which can be used to make a three-quarter apron, contrasting kick pleats with bolero to match, or a tiny peplum with matching cap sleeves.

One small dress made from such a suit (left) utilizes a remnant of gingham for added gores on each side of the skirt. Loops were made using the original buttonholes at the waist. The shirt and skirt were sewn together, making a one-piece dress which got a gingham sash.

A second suit in plaid gingham (right) was given eyelet embroidery to trim suspenders and make-believe pockets, after the crotch tab was discarded and hem finished off.

SPORTS COLLEGE

By 'ACE' PERCIVAL

Fielders Use Two Styles In Big Leagues

On Left—"Trap" Stance

If you are to develop high level fielding skill one of the things you must do is develop the correct stance for taking the ball. By stance I refer to the position of your feet, body and hands just before you actually field the ball.

In the big leagues there are two accepted stances. One is called the "Trap Stance" and the other the "Cronin Glide" stance. In the Trap Stance the left leg is well in advance of the right leg, the knees are well bent and the ball is taken just in front of the forward foot.

The critics of this system claim it is harder to get all of your body behind the ball and that because of the position of the feet you can't move to either side once you have committed yourself to this stance, quickly enough in case the ball takes a bad hop.

One of the big advantages to it is that you are in good position from which to throw after the ball has been fielded. It is also a more natural position because all you have to do is take one step forward and go down for the ball. Most experts feel this system is ideal for teen-agers.

The Cronin Glide (developed by the famous Joe Cronin) requires the player to place his left foot just a little ahead of the right foot with the legs well spread apart. The knees are well bent and the ball is taken in between the feet close to the body. The weight is on the rear leg, and after the ball is fielded the throw is made off the right leg. This stance seems to let you get more behind the ball and get down lower.

Sports College tests show that there seems to be little difference in effectiveness. We suggest you try both thoroughly and use the one that works best for you.

MAKE THEM VOLLEY UP

If you are playing against someone who likes to volley and does well at this style of game make sure you hit your shots so that he has to volley the ball upwards as much as possible. If you do this you will force him to hit you many easy shots as it is impossible to volley hard or decisively when you have to hit the ball up.

When he is approaching the net or is fairly far away from it hit to his feet. When he is at the net try to place the ball just over the net; if in doubt hit it right at the centre of his body.

KEEP LEGS UNDER WATER

When doing the flutter kick keep your feet and legs under water at all times. After all you can't get any forward propulsion by waving your feet in the air. There is nothing from which to get pressure. If your feet even come out of the water a little bit you are losing forward drive. Keep those feet working in the water. If you have a lot of trouble controlling this you are probably bending your knees too much when you flutter kick or you are letting your hips sink too low. Try to keep your hips just under the surface of the water.

By SHIRLEY MAY FRANCE

The flutter kick is the best kick—if it's done correctly. There are several things to remember if you think your kick could be improved:

For one thing, the legs should be kept fairly stiff. Don't flail away, because that's using up your energy.

Another thing is the knees. Don't bend them very much, because you don't have to. Notice how slightly my knees are bent. That's all the bend you really need.

The kick is not a high kick. Line shows you just about how high my heel goes. You don't have to go very far above water. The dotted action. Tomorrow: Flutter kick in

LOWER YOUR GOLF HANDICAP

Eager Beavers Are Beaten By Enthusiasm

By GENE SARAZEN
Winner of Them All

IN my tours, I have observed that less than one per cent of golfers know how to practice correctly.

At every club there is a group of over-eager beavers who bang hundreds of balls down the practice fairway and are muscularly tired before they actually tee off. You've got to be fresh to play good golf.

Ben Hogan is the one player who has, or had before his horrible accident, the mental and physical stamina to play his best after expending maximum power and concentration in practice.

A player should warm up, not practice. At my age, to conserve energy, my warm-up consists of 15 or 20 shots with a six or seven iron on which I check my timing; four or five drives to unlimber my other muscles and then five minutes or so on the practice green.

It does no good to practice after a round when you are feeling tired, or at any time when your co-ordination is worn down.

Do not practice all the clubs in the bag indiscriminately. Concentrate on the club you were playing the poorest on your preceding round.

If your irons need attention, do not succumb to the lure of practicing your woods, your best shots, just because there are a few friends watching on the porch of the clubhouse.

RIGHT WAY—Jimmy Demaret, above, checks his timing with a few seven iron shots, will still be fresh at tee time.

THAT old-time game draughts or checkers is as fascinating as ever, as proved by the wide interest it has among youths today.

If you want to improve your game, try working out problems like this, contributed to this puzzle corner by Millard Hopper, national unrestricted champion.

CYD CHARISSE is lovely enough to lure almost anything out of the salt, salt sea. Surf casting is one of the popular M-G-M star's favorite recreations beside furnishing a most ornamental sight on the Pacific coast.

JACOBY ON CANASTA

This Problem Is A Dilly

THE following letter from Chicago is self-explanatory: "Here's a real dilly of a problem if I ever saw one. The stock pile was very large. Our side had already melded our 120 points but not so our opponent."

"I discarded a nine. The player to my left picked it up and melded her required 120 points. But she did not have a natural pair of nines in her hand, and her required 120 was thusly:

9-9-2 10-10-2 K-K-2

"After everyone counted her 120 points, she continued to meld of the pile she had picked up. However, no one noticed this error, until the next player had picked a card from the closed pack, made a three-card meld for our side and discarded. Then I discovered the error."

A terrific debate followed as to penalty, renege, whose fault, discovered too late, etc. Would you please straighten us out. We're completely stumped!" (Signed "Perplexed Sextet.")

RULE MAKES IT CLEAR

I admit the question is a dilly; however, the sextet have a simple way of solving their problem. Law 29, of the Official Laws of Canasta, as found in my books and all the other standard books on the game, reads as follows:

"Condonement of Illegal Melds: If after an illegal meld the next player completes his play before attention is drawn to the error, there is no penalty. An initial meld with insufficient count stands as a correct first meld. Likewise, all other properly melded combinations stand as correct. Combinations of cards that do not form a meld are replaced in the offender's hand."

"Comment: An example of cards that do not form a meld would be king-ten-deuce. Such cards are replaced in the offender's hand if the error is condoned."

Hence, in this instance, since the next player has completed his play, the entire play and meld stand as legal and the opponents have no redress.

Incidentally, this letter shows exactly why the law was made that way. If an illegal meld could be called at any time, imagine what would happen if instead of being discovered after one player had played, it was not discovered until several plays had been made. It would take the Supreme Court of the United States to reconstruct the hand and assess the proper penalties, etc. In fact, I believe even the Supreme Court would disqualify itself.

Q—After the cards have all been dealt out, are you supposed to look at the bottom of the deck to see that there are no wild cards there?

A—You are never supposed to look at the bottom of the deck. If a wild card happens to be there, that is perfectly all right. It should be allowed to stay there, and nobody should know about it beforehand.

Q—If you touch the discard pile or the stock pile are you required to take whichever pile you touch? If you touch one pile, and then draw from the other pile, what is the penalty?

A—You are required to draw from the pile that you touch first. If you touch one pile and then draw from the other pile, you must replace the card or cards so drawn and make your proper draw from the pile that you touch first.

However, if you have already made an improper draw in this way and mixed one or more cards with your hand, that draw stands. In either case (whether you go back and make the proper draw or whether the improper draw stands) your side pays a penalty of 50 points.

Game Stolen The Larceny Lou Way

HERE'S one that your friend Larceny Lou might have played," writes a correspondent from Lansing, Mich. "It wasn't so much a matter of doing anything; unusually tricky. It was mostly a matter of allowing an opponent to put the noose around his own head and string himself up."

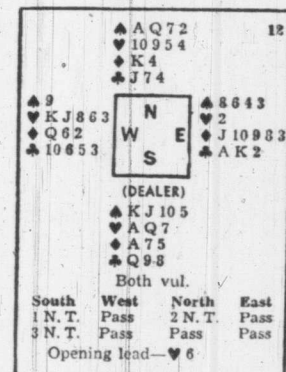

"West opened the six of hearts, and South won in his own hand with the seven. He then rattled off four spade tricks, on which West discarded a heart, a diamond, and a club. South next laid down the ace of hearts, hoping to drop an honor. East discarded a low diamond, carefully holding on to the deuce of clubs."

"South then led a club from his hand and put up dummy's jack. East won with the ace of clubs and returned the jack of diamonds. Dummy won with the king of diamonds and returned a low club, whereupon East casually played the deuce that he had so carefully saved."

"It didn't occur to South that East was giving him the business. He finessed the nine of clubs on the assumption that West must have the king and that his only chance was to find the ten in the East hand."

"West naturally won with the ten of clubs and that was the end of poor South since West could immediately take two hearts and lead a club to his partner's king."

Congratulations to Lansing's Larceny Lou. As my correspondent indicates, some of the finest deceptive plays are more passive than active. You must sit tight and allow the opponent to make the mistake for which he is clearly headed. This sometimes obliges you to save just the right cards, for fear of revealing the true situation to your opponents.

The situation described in this hand is quite typical. When you have the ace-king of a suit, it isn't always necessary to take your top cards in a great hurry. If declarer goes after the suit he may have a finesse; and if you don't help him, he may take the finesse the wrong way. Of course, this sort of play is much safer against no-trump than against a suit contract. All too often, if you fail to take your tricks promptly against a suit contract, declarer will find a way to put your winning cards to sleep.

STAMPS

Many New Issues From British Colonial Office

THE COLONIAL OFFICE seems to have a heavy program on hand, when it comes to bringing out new postage-stamp issues!

Mention was made last week of the 18 sets which are slated for the West Indian colonies, to commemorate the new University College of the B.W.I. Further details are now available.

As stated, the sets will consist of two stamps for each colony. The lower value will depict the arms of the colony, while the higher denomination will show a full-length portrait of H.R.H. Princess Alice of Athlone, seated, in her robes as chancellor of the university. All the stamps will have the wording, "University College of the West Indies," along with the name of the colony, and all will be bicolored.

Gibraltar brought out a commemorative set on the first of the month, marking the inauguration of a legislative council. These were formed by overprinting the current 2d, 3d, 6d and 1s stamps in red or black "New Constitution, 1950." They will be on sale for six months.

Grenada has changed over to the decimal system so is altering its stamps accordingly, with values from 1/4c to $2.50 now representing the current denominations which ran from one farthing to 10s. It is interesting to note that whereas all other B.W.I. colonies replaced the shilling value with a 24c stamp (and so on to the 10s, which was represented with a $2.40 value), Grenada has chosen to make the shilling equal 25c instead.

Designs for the lower values of the set (1/4c to 12c) will revert to the old original issue of 1961, except that the head of the King will of course be substituted for that of Queen Victoria. The next three values will show the badge of the colony, while the $2.50 will be similar to the current 10s.

Turks and Caicos Islands—The new set went on sale Aug. 2. Strange to say, denominations are still in sterling instead of dollars and cents.

Women Should Know How To Handle Money

By GAILE DUCAS

THOUGH many women are obliged to earn money and others must budget for their families, most American women are second-rate in the management of money. That's the opinion of Miss Dorcas E. Campbell, assistant vice-president of a New York bank, an author and lecturer on money management.

"Since more and more women are working and since women often outlive their husbands and thus inherit money, it's essential that they learn how to handle it successfully," Miss Campbell says. "On the job, women earn less than men and therefore have to do more with their money. As inheritors, they must know how to hang on to it."

In the United States, Miss Campbell points out, women are the owners of more wealth and money than men but in name only. They let some man—husband, son, father, brother, lawyer—take care of their financial problems. There is no reason, she thinks, why any woman who can run a house or hold a job can't learn to handle money.

If a woman can be trusted to buy a refrigerator which will last for years, she can be trusted to choose the right kind of savings bonds for the next decade of her life," Miss Campbell says. "Mostly, it's a matter of not being intimidated by financial terms, which are no harder to learn than words like 'parboil' or 'marinate.'"

The ABC's of planned saving, a term which Miss Campbell feels is far more accurate than "budgeting," include these important points:

1. Having money in the bank for an emergency or for an investment which will be a form of thrift.
2. Buy insurance tailored to your needs and income.
3. Buy savings bonds outright or through payroll deduction.
4. Invest in industrial securities with your surplus money.

"Women's clubs can help by studying money instead of gardens," Miss Campbell adds. "Their committees, which line up speakers, could ask some financial experts to outline the basic steps in money management. The rewards for acquiring the ability to handle money wisely are high. They come in the form of comfort and security."

One last suggestion from Miss Campbell: Learn to read the financial page of your newspaper. It can teach you a great deal and, once you get the hang of it, it's fascinating.

Financial expert Dorcas E. Campbell: "Any woman who runs a house or holds a job can learn to manage money."

Snacks Tell On Figures

By ALICIA HART

FOR some teen-agers, summer fun revolves largely around fudge sundaes at the soda shop, jelly beans in the front porch swing, and after-date raids on the refrigerator. But many of you are paying for it with blotchy skin and lumpy figures.

You'll probably protest that you don't nibble all the time just for the fun of it; that you're really hungry. This is no doubt true. Growing bodies need a great deal of fuel.

The difficulty is that many teen-agers allow their appetites to be their sole guides in selecting their snacks. They often fail to provide what is really needed in proteins, vitamins and calcium. The problem is one of quality rather than quantity.

Instead of munching potato chips as you read, try carrot sticks. Sliced thin and crisped in a glass of cold water in the refrigerator, they are brittle enough to please almost any nibbler.

If you're really sincere about guarding your complexion and figure this summer, try raisins or other dried fruits for energy-supplying, non-damaging sugars.

When you're thirsty, order fruit drinks. These are good at home too, and the new frozen concentrates make them simple and easy to prepare.

When the gang comes over for after-swimming eats or canasta, surprise them with cottage cheese and crackers instead of cake or cookies. This cheese combines well with non-fattening crackers for a tasty and healthful snack. Flavor it with garlic salt, black pepper and sour cream. Or fancy it up with green peppers or pickles.

A bowl of fresh fruit may be used to provide a colorful and harmless sweet between meals, or as a dessert.

SCALLOPED MACARONI AND HAM

Two tablespoons fat, 2 tablespoons flour, 2 cups milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups macaroni, in 1-inch pieces, 1 cup diced, cooked ham, 1/4 cup grated, sharp cheese, paprika.

Melt fat, blend in flour. Add milk and salt and cook until thick, stirring constantly. Boil macaroni in salted water until tender. Drain. Place half the macaroni in a greased casserole, add diced ham and half the sauce. Cover with macaroni then sauce. Top with grated cheese and sprinkle with paprika. Bake in a moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for 50 minutes. Yield: six servings.

FOR BACKYARD "PICNICS" prepare containers of spreads, packages of crackers and cookies, fruit and milk.

Spreads For Crackers Aid Backyard Picnic

By GAYNOR MADDON

WHEN the youngsters tease for a picnic in the backyard, prepare a few spreads, give them a basket containing crispy crackers and cookies, some fresh fruit and a thermos of milk. Then send them on their adventurous way, knowing they will be well fed although you have had very little extra work.

If the spreads are kept in the refrigerator in small paper cartons, they're ready at all times and can be carried to the picnic in the same cartons. The crackers and cookies, too, can be taken to the picnic in their paper boxes to save time and unnecessary work.

Here are some appetizing and nourishing spreads:

CREAM CHEESE-DATE SPREAD (Makes 2 cups)

One-half pound package cream cheese, 2 tablespoons orange juice, 1 cup chopped pitted dates, 1/2 cup chopped walnut meats.

Blend cheese and orange juice. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Serve on crispy crackers.

CHICKEN PICKLE SPREAD (Makes 2 cups)

One 6-ounce can chicken or 1 cup chicken, 1/2 cup chopped sweet pickles, 2 hard-cooked eggs, chopped, 1/4 cup mayonnaise, 1/2 teaspoon salt.

Chop chicken; add remaining ingredients, mixing well. Spread on crispy crackers.

PICNIC EGG SPREAD (Makes 3 cups)

Eight hard-cooked eggs, shelled, 1 cup minced celery, 1/4 cup pimiento, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup mayonnaise, pinch onion salt.

Chop eggs and add remaining ingredients, mixing well. Spread on crackers.

DEVILED HAM SPREAD (Makes 1 cup)

One 2 1/2-ounce can deviled ham, one 3-ounce package cream cheese, 1/4 teaspoon minced onion, salt, pepper.

Blend ham, cream cheese and onion. Add remaining ingredients; mix well. Serve on crackers.

Easy Meat Loaf Is Inexpensive

A NEW meat loaf recipe is always welcome. It's particularly welcome these days when meat prices are high. This recipe, by an old friend of this column, Lucy M. Maltby of Corning, N.Y., extends the beef protein with protein of milk, bread and bacon.

Easy Meat Loaf

One and one-half pounds ground beef, 1 1/2 cups soft bread crumbs, 1 cup top milk, 3 tablespoons chopped onion, 3 tablespoons catsup, 1/4 teaspoon poultry seasoning, 1 1/2 teaspoons salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 3 slices bacon.

Mix together ground beef, bread crumbs, milk, onion, catsup, poultry seasoning, salt and pepper. Spread in a two-quart heat-resistant glass loaf pan. Cut bacon slices in two; arrange on top of meat mixture. Bake in moderate oven, 350 degrees F., for about one hour.

Lucy gives us another little item—this time for dessert. It's a party feature—rich, delicate and seasonal.

Pineapple Mousse (8 servings)

One-half cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 cup shredded pineapple, 1 cup whipping cream, 2 tablespoons water, 2 egg whites, maraschino cherries for garnish (4-ounce bottle).

Add sugar and lemon juice to shredded pineapple; stir thoroughly. Whip cream; fold into pineapple mixture. Add water to egg whites and beat until stiff. Fold gently into pineapple mixture.

Arrange thin slices of maraschino cherries around inside of eight glass custard cups, five-ounce size. Pour in the pineapple mixture. Freeze in the freezing unit of refrigerator for about four hours or until firm all the way through.

Serve in the cups in which the mousse was frozen. The top of each dessert may be decorated with maraschino cherries.

SALMON TOAST CUPS

Bread, 1 lb. canned salmon, 1/4 cup butter, 2 egg yolks.

Make baskets by placing two slices of bread, crust removed, into a buttered custard cup, overlapping two corners of the bread on bottom of container. Bake at 375 degrees F., 5 to 10 minutes. Flake salmon and fill hot baskets. Make sauce by melting 1/4 cup butter with two egg yolks in double boiler, stirring constantly. Water in bottom of double boiler should not be boiling. As mixture thickens, add another 1/4 cup butter. When thick, remove from heat, add seasonings. Pour sauce over salmon baskets.

Let's Pretend Makes Ideal Youth Theatre

By AUDREY ST. D. JOHNSON

IN THE Summer School of Education program, drama took its place for the first time, this year. And from an outsider's point of view, at least, as well as that of members of the class, it was an experiment well worth repeating.

The course in "Creative Dramatics" is not to be confused with an ordinary theatre course nor with play-writing. In Miss Grier's class at Victoria High School, the teachers were learning, not how to produce a smooth-running, professional show, but really getting down to the educational heart of the matter in creating drama which is a dramatic self-expression and can do for the young mind and personality.

They learned it through doing it themselves. Invention and physical interpretation of a poem or story is one thing in the comparatively secluded classroom. Yet the shyest among the teachers found that it is possible to get up in front of a crowded auditorium and forget oneself completely in the most fantastic antics.

But apart from the more obvious value of such self-expression, there are other considerations for the young boy or girl. The channelling of imagination and swelling egos into constructive activity, the release of the heightened appreciation of literature and the development of taste and sensibility in all matters related to the higher senses of the human mind.

For young children it is the ideal theatre, where they make their own plays out of their own choice of material; where their taste is merely guided, not dictated, their powers of observation called into full play and their natural realm of "let's pretend" utilized for their mental advancement. And where the creative imagination is not stifled by the technique which is perfectly suitable for the maturing mind of the young adult.

URNS INTO CONTEST

The invasion into the professional theatre world of Broadway, of the Arena-style staging, first pioneered in the Pacific Northwest, has really turned into a contest.

We have reported before on the establishment of the new company on the former ballroom of the Hotel Edison in New York. The opening vehicle, an old comedy called "The Show-Off," played to packed houses for the whole of its three-week engagement and has been succeeded by Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar," whose run was extended to four weeks.

These two plays were elected for the experiment, but now that the central stage idea has caught on, there will definitely be a continuation of three-week runs of other shows.

One of the distractions which would seem unavoidable when closely and completely surrounded by audience, was reported by members of the cast of "Julius Caesar." At the first performance, a couple of trouble-shooters sat in the front row with their backs to the play open between them. Watched heads together, they watched the actors did not distort the text. After enduring this for one act, the players appealed to the management to ask the monitors to desert. The psychological effect was an unnerving one!

The rich melodies of one of the world's greatest lyric composers have been the staple of Broadway years in the past. Blossom time, scheduled for the third night performance by the Standard Theatre Company, starting August 21.

Oddly enough, the story keeps more or less to the actual facts of Franz Peter Schubert's short, pathetic life. While it is doubtful whether he ever actually loved Kathi, there was a Kathi, one of four musical sisters who performed his music and befriended him. Kathi, it is certain, did not love Franz; but she admired him enough to have said of him:

"He was a noble soul, never envious or jealous and touchingly modest. . . . Whenever he heard anything beautiful in music . . . he was quite ecstatic."

Ralph Magelsen, who sang the role of another composer last year, Edvard Grieg, is to take the part of Schubert in the current production, which, by all accounts, will closely parallel in artistic delight, 1949's brilliant success, "Song of Norway."

Alfred Tennyson Lost His Early Poems And Rewrote Them All From Memory

By PETER ELIOT

once the dim look of extreme short sight and a concentrated gaze as of one who sees far into the distance.

Tennyson's father would have liked him ordained and earning a living within the Church, but Alfred would not hear of this. His friends feared that his poetry was not sufficiently popular to bring him a living suitable even to his modest tastes and hoped that he would get on the Civil List with a pension.

Carlyle, it was, who first approached him, another of Tennyson's friends, Monckton Milnes, by now a Member of Parliament, to do his best. "My dear Carlyle," wrote Milnes in reply to the first request, "the thing is not so easy as you suppose—what will my constituents say if I get the pension for Tennyson? They know nothing about him or his poetry and they will probably think he is a poor relation of my own and that the whole affair is a job."

"Richard Milnes," replied Carlyle solemnly, "on the Day of Judgment when the Lord asks you why you didn't get that pension for Alfred Tennyson, it will not do to lay the blame on your constituents. It is you who will be damned."

SHOCKED LANDSEER

W. T. Shore in Charles Dickens and His Friends—a delightful collection of anecdotes—tells the story of Edwin Landseer, the British painter, who was walking one day with a duchess in a certain garden where workmen had been making extensive alterations in the face of nature. "I can't think how it was imagined," said he. "Oh, it was quite easy," was her reply, startling him.

There's no one here," Cecily had been arguing with himself.

You Can't Go Wrong With These Fruits

By CECIL SOLLY

LAST WEEK I gave a list of cherry and pear trees that are most suited for our Pacific Coast climate, and today I am continuing with apples, apricots, plums and peaches.

Almost everyone has a favorite apple, but most varieties, to attain their fine color and size, must be grown in the very different (to us) climate and conditions of the Okanagan and Eastern Washington. The coastal weather is not quite suited to most of the "store" varieties we know so well and like so much. It, therefore, becomes necessary to select our garden apples with the utmost care in this district. Apples grown here will keep a long time if they are harvested correctly and stored under proper supervision.

PLUMS DO WELL.

Practically all plums and prunes are highly successful in this climate. Those that do best of all are the main crop sorts which ripen during the warmest times in early September. These should only be grown where local conditions warrant a trial. Generally unsuitable sorts crack, bleed gum or drop fruit immaturity. The varieties suggested in this list will avoid most of the usual troubles.

Climax, was probably the finest of all Luther Burbank's fruit tree introductions. The fruit is large, oval rich golden color, very sugary sweet. This variety, Climax, is the only sure self-pollinating kind, according to U.S.D.A.

Bradshaw, A very large fruit with dark red skin and golden flesh. Flavor is rich and sugary, quality and texture are excellent. The tree is hardy and a strong grower. Blooms later than most other plums and thus sets its fruit more surely every year.

Burbank is a more heavily bearing sort than Bradshaw but is normally much earlier and is therefore listed only for "early" gardens. An improvement on Bradshaw, if your garden is suitable, Burbank is a highly effective pollinator.

Satsuma is the best red fleshed plum for this district. Its popularity is likely to be affected by the name. Flesh is crimson all through when ripe; juicy and of fine quality. The pit is very small. The variety is hardy, which is slightly irregular with more egg shaped fruit, is likely to become popular here when it is better known.

Damson, Everyone knows the English Damson, which ripens here in early September. Produces enormous crops regularly every year, of small round fruit which is incomparable for preserves and marmalades.

Greengage produces a round green fruit the size of a golf ball, which turns golden when ripe. The crops are always heavy, clean and fine for canning tree-ripe. Excellent for jams and marmalade. Flavor is very rich due to good sugar content.

Sugar or Date Plum, This is a Burbank introduction which ripens in August. Fruit is round, flesh shape of a date, rich, sugary, which contains nearly 26% sugar, an important item. Excellent for drying and canning. Be sure to include this sort because it is good.

APRICOT FAVORITES

The apricot is one of the earliest to open in this district. Because of our cold nights, the apricot is set in a "cold spot" or valley unless there is unusually good drainage.

The finest varieties of eastern apricots are several weeks too early in ripening to suit our late season and cold nights. If your garden is on top of a hill or ridge and has good air-drainage in an "early spot," choose the Perfection; if not, play safe and grow the old faithful Titon.

Titon, There are many fine large trees of this variety in bearing here to prove how well it produces large sized fruit of unusually pollenizer for the other plums and prunes.

Prunes, There is a very little difference in the prunes that are satisfactory for the home garden. Both the Italian and Hungarian varieties are quite satisfactory and produce heavy crops each year, of fine sweet juicy fruit.

VETERAN IS BEST PEACH

It is well known that the eastern peaches do not produce successfully in this district. There are several sorts, however, that do exceedingly well here, as is evidenced by the number of orchards that are now coming into full bearing. To produce the best crops, the fruit must not be a too-early or a too-late variety, for peaches are only at their best when they ripen in August or early September.

If only one tree is desired, the best variety is Veteran, which bears early and late crops. It should be planted in the spring, and it will be equally good but bears its crop three weeks earlier.

Veteran is a variety of Canadian origin. Fruit is later than the other listed, large, round, golden flesh, freestone and the nearest sort to Elberta that can be grown successfully.

Too Much Water Can Be Harmful To Lawns

CLOSE MOWING and overwatering are often responsible for poor lawns in midsummer. If the soil is kept constantly moist, grass will not grow. Water should be applied only when the soil is dry to the touch. The soil should be moistened to a depth of 2 to 3 inches. Good drainage, and a porous surface which will admit air are the best protection against overwatering.

Frequent shallow sprinkling is even more dangerous on the lawn than in the flower and vegetable garden. Do not begin to water until the grass needs it, then soak the soil deeply at longer intervals. Many good lawn grasses are destroyed by close mowing. The best height to set the mower is 1 1/2 inches from the surface. To adjust the mower, place it on a level floor and measure the distance from the floor to the flat knife on which the reel cuts. All mowers have some means of adjustment by which this distance can be raised or lowered. While grasses grow best on soil which is slightly acid, pH 6 to 6.5, greater acidity may make plants more susceptible to disease. Heavy clay soils are especially improved by the addition of new lime to the soil. Acidity and apply limestone to bring it up to the proper point.

WILD WHEAT

The first grains of wheat grew wild on the steppes of Asia thousands of years ago. This wild wheat was the genesis of the grain that we know and use today.

Canada's Newest Park Is Delight For Vacationist

NEAR the tiny village of Alma on the spray-swept New Brunswick south coast, the federal government has carved an 80-square-mile playground for golfers, tennis players and swimmers.

Fundy National Park, the latest to be completed in the Dominion, opened July 29—two years after bulldozer crews and surveyors moved into a wild and rugged area of knifed-edged outcroppings and dense bushland.

Science came in with the pick and shovel swimmers. The 130-foot swimming pool contains pre-warmed water from the Bay of Fundy nor far off. It's filtered, chlorinated and changed frequently.

There also are the booming rollers and sandy beaches of Herring Cove. Back of the spreading sand, men tore down trees and built bath houses and cottages.

The first tee of the nine-hole golf course rears 200 feet above the road level at the park's entrance. Before it looms the Devil's Acre, a 1,200-foot razorback. The sun glints all summer on snow and ice at its crest.

The vacationer can find a spot to pitch a tent, unhook a trailer, play tennis or just sit.

NOW A MUSICAL

"That old chestnut, 'Charley's Aunt,' is back with a new dress and more popular than ever. Where's quacking under the title 'Where's Charley?' it has become a star. Recently, it has been a record as the sixth longest-run show of its type in New York's history.

This was achieved when one more than the record 'High Button Shoes,' the record five in order, are Oklahoma, 'The Girl in the Saddle,' 'The Song of Norway,'

Part Of Victoria That Remains Native

By ROBERT CONNELL

I HAVE just come in from a ramble in a little piece of native woodland still left within the city boundaries. It is not forest as we understand it on Vancouver Island, but the kind of mixture of fir, deciduous trees, and shrubs, with grassy spaces between, that only requires a little pond or a trickling stream to make it perfect.

Just outside its bounds however one can see the peaks and ranges of the Olympics still white about the summits and below the grey fogbelt, the dark sea broken by white caps. Overhead this August day the sky is a dome of cloudless blue.

The Pemberton Woods lie a little higher than the residential district to the north and the slope on that side is covered with a light wood of balsam fir, alder and black poplar with thickets of such native shrubs as osprey, salmonberry, snowberry and Nootka rose, with invading foreigners such as the cultivated blackberry.

Under the shade of these grow several of our native liliaceous plants, the fawn lily, two species of fairy bells, and wild lily-of-the-valley. Wild cherry attains the size of a small tree.

There are lofty shrubberies of mock-orange and ocean spray towards the south with tall bushes of flowering currant. Scattered about are many old maples, combining in the manner of that tree the dead and barless tops of an earlier day with the rich green foliage of today.

An open space tall grasses flourish, now and by the well-torn trail and rain, and by the well-torn trail there is at one point a long stone with their black bands faintly feathered with the very slender branches.

At one or two places the stout and larger fertile stems are to be seen. Occasionally one comes upon the white flowers of the large ones so abundantly displayed at mid-summer: these are only half an inch or even less across.

Yet despite their smallness they have all the snowy purity of their elders. This second flowering beside the ripening seed-vessels is as it were duplicated in the snowberry which here and there is found to have both green fruit and little pink flowers, only in this case the flowers are of the same size as the earlier ones.

GIRL PITCHER INVADERS MAJORS —ON THE SCREEN

There's a wild scramble to be the first on the screen with a movie about a girl pitching for a major league baseball team. It's a two-way race between Lou Costello's independent film unit, which has option on "The Girl Who Pitched for Brooklyn," and Charles Peck of Chapel Hill Prod. with "The Filly From Flatbush."

Peck claims priority on the idea, via Collier's magazine story he wrote in 1945. Lou says he's angling for a tie-up with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Peck says the Dodgers wanted $100,000 for the right to use the team's name and he's calling his team the Brooklyn Bombers. Both yards take place during the wartime male shortage. But as Peck says:

"I saw Preacher Joe pitch for Brooklyn and I know 15 girls who look healthier than he does."

No Place Like Rome

"And So To Rome," by Cecil Roberts. (Macmillan.)

ROME is the "Jill's paradise," the gossip's bottomless well and the inextinguishable treasure-house for all to whom history, art, architecture, religion and life make appeal," to author Roberts.

"In the brief span of our mortal days, 10 lives would not suffice to sate our curiosity or tire our interest," he writes of the eternal city and proceeds to recreate for readers life in other eras as he views the ruins of villas once inhabited by the great and wealthy Roman families.

He makes his views on art and architecture, music and people in a delightful fashion, but gets more than necessarily gossip concerning the vagaries and delinquencies of some of the earlier heads of the church in Rome. He has picked out the handful of notorious ones and their actions without counterbalancing them with the many before and after who followed truly saintly lives.

There is talk of Raphael, who created unsurpassable beauty in an age noted for its cruelty and brutality. The author discusses some of his work in relation to two women in Raphael's life—the girl he was betrothed to and never married, and the beautiful "Fornarina" who was the subject for his madonnas, according to Mr. Roberts.

He writes at length of the Palazzo Borghese and the beautiful Pauline, sister of Napoleon who was a princess by marriage and a courtesan by desire and conduct. There is the famous meeting between Galilee and the poet Milton.

With a feel for atmosphere and a sense of history, Mr. Roberts records his journeyings in excellent prose. He is informal, intermingling anecdote and history in a charming manner, with of course, a few exceptions.—A. C.

Royal Family Earns Penny It Gets, Says Governess Of Little Princesses

By AILEEN CAMPBELL

"LIFE in a palace rather resembles camping in a museum," these historic palaces are so old, so tied up with tradition, that they are dropping to bits, all the equipment is decades behind the time."

That will give you an idea of what to expect from Marion Crawford's entertaining account of the British Royal Family, from the day she first joined them as governess to Princess Elizabeth, and Princess Margaret Rose, until her retirement 17 years later. It is titled "The Little Princesses" and was published by W. J. McLeod Limited.

The Royal Family certainly engages a good deal less austere and more human than newspaper accounts have made it appear. Miss Crawford has not tried to paint plaster saints, but human beings with the same feelings and sensibility common to most of humanity.

"Royalty earn every penny they get on their loss of privacy at such times," she wrote referring to the much-publicized courtship of Elizabeth and Philip. ELIZABETH WAS HURT. Cries of "Where's Phillip?" met the princess on a tour of a factory before the young couple themselves had come to any understanding. When the engagement was barely announced, newspapers on both sides of the Atlantic presumed to speculate on the number of children and their rank. The princess was hurt when a girl her age would have been, according to Miss Crawford.

The kindness of the Royal Family is well established but the writer was not blind to their unknowns. Accused the moving from the Duke and Duchess of York's quiet home in Piccadilly to Buckingham Palace, Miss Crawford really gives her readers a view of life in a palace. Definitely it is not what it's Princess Elizabeth, right, spoke to the children of the Commonwealth in her first radio address. It was given early in the war, and she said "And when peace comes it will be for us children of today to make the world of tomorrow a better and happier place." When she had finished, Princess Margaret Rose, left, added her own "Good night, children."

Should The Half-Caste Bride Keep Her Secret?

with the missionary doctor who inquired who was the father: "Must one ask the name of every passing sailor?"

She settles on what she believes to be the name of a Cornish second mate on a Liverpool freighter; he had sailed with the ship and she never saw him again.

Ngaire had been taken from the native village, brought up in an Anglican school—and a virtually adopted by a wealthy English widow whose companion she is when Peter, and the reader, meet her.

They fall deeply in love and the girl is tortured by the thought of losing Peter if she tells him she is a half-caste and by the dread of consequences of his finding it out by the appearance of an off-color baby.

She goes through with the marriage and is just about to sail for England on the honeymoon when she is blackmailed by a New Zealand white who has had a lascivious eye on her for years. She leaves him in his hotel room with a bullet in his head and sails off with her bridegroom wholly unsuspecting. But an over-zealous conscience clouds the happiness of her honeymoon voyage and her troubles are intensified when she learns, just before the ship reaches San Francisco, that she is pregnant.

How she leaves her distracted husband there and gets a Clipper plane back to New Zealand makes one of the more tense passages in the book. Her attempt to take up life in her native village and her subsequent suicide just as her husband is about to locate her is dealt with in poignant sympathy.

Half-Caste is a gripping, though provoking book—it is a pity the author could not have gone a little farther to give us an alternative solution to the problem he poses.—A. M. Thomas.

Though Coleridge stands supreme as a critic of English poetry, his own work largely is a "collection of fragments," according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

If you could yell loud enough while standing in New York to be heard in San Francisco, your voice wouldn't reach there for about four hours.

British Track Team Winner

LONDON (AP)—Britain defeated the United States in an international track meet before 40,000 spectators today.

The home team scored 76 points, U.S. 74 and the Benelux team (Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg) 40 points.

The U.S. won eight events but Britain finished at least second in all but one of the 14 contests.

Mal Whitfield of the U.S. team ran the half-mile in 1:50, fastest in the world this year, to come within eight-tenths of a second of the world record held by Sydney Wooderson of Britain.

Constable Hero In Saanich Death

Recovers Well-Digger's Body From Bottom Of 130-Foot Hole

By JIM McKEACHIE

Heroic story of efforts of a Saanich police constable to save the life of a man at the bottom of a 130-foot deep cement-lined well ended tragically today.

The voice of Const. Robert Adrian, a former hardrock miner in the north Ontario, echoed up the long, three-foot diameter shaft around 9 o'clock to inform waiting colleagues that Svend A. Iverson was dead.

Iverson, aged about 45, a well digger who lived on his seven-acre farm on East Saanich Road, a mile north of Elk Lake, was killed instantly when a 350-pound bucket of wet sand plummeted 60 feet and crushed the top of his skull.

Wife of the deceased, Mrs. Gerda Amanda Iverson, was operating a power winch at the top of the partially-completed well when the three-eighths-inch cable raising the bucket to the surface snapped.

FATE UNCERTAIN

When Saanich firemen from the Elk Lake hall arrived with an inhalator, it was not known whether Iverson was dead or alive.

Fireman D. Simpson was lowered part way down the dark shaft by Capt. T. Moss and Fireman W. Holmes, but had to be brought up. He showed the effects of the brief experience.

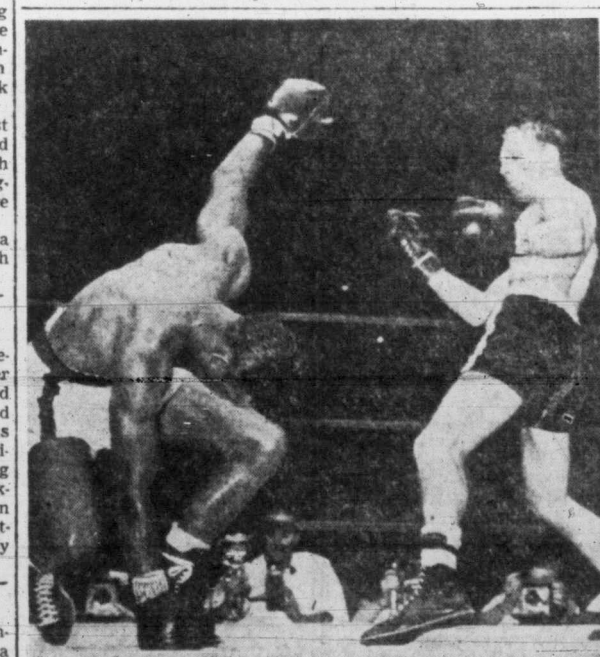

When Saanich police arrived, Const. Adrian volunteered to go down. He was lowered by ropes borrowed from Hafer Bros., Saanich.

On the sandy bottom of the well, just two feet above water level, the flashlight carried by the short, dark constable showed Iverson doubled over. The bucket was lying beside him.

Const. Adrian fastened a safety belt around the body, then signalled by voice and with his flashlight, and was raised to the surface. Iverson's remains were brought up last.

Still shaky after his experience, the police officer said his back and elbows were scratched up from bouncing around the cement walls of the shaft.

Leads Strike

One thousand garbage men, gravediggers and city maintenance men, members of Hamilton Civic Employees' Union, walked off their jobs at Hamilton, Ont., and set up picket lines in a strike for a 40-hour week, which city says they can't give, with the same take-home pay, a raise from $1 to $1.10 an hour and an extra paid statutory holiday.

Westerling Not To Be Expelled By Singapore

SINGAPORE (AP)—The Singapore government announced today that it will not deport P.P.P. (Turk) Westerling, former Dutch Army captain, until his extradition case is settled finally.

The United States of Indonesia has been demanding his custody since last February, when he fled to Singapore, after leading an abortive revolt in West Java.

Westerling trained at Stratford, Ont., with Dutch forces during the Second World War.

The Singapore government ordered Westerling deported to Holland Feb. 28, but this was delayed by his imprisonment and court battles.

The Jakarta government's demand for his extradition to Indonesia to face murder charges was denied by the Singapore Supreme Court Aug. 3. The government disclosed today that Indonesia has filed notice of intention to apply Aug. 16 for a stay of the court's decision.

Saanich Child Dies Suddenly

Collapsing in her front yard shortly after noon today, seven-and-a-half-year-old Phyllis Roe, 1971 Carrick Street, was rushed to the Royal Jubilee Hospital by Saanich firemen but pronounced dead on arrival.

Cause of the youngster's collapse was not learned, but firemen endeavored to revive her with a pulmotor for several minutes without success. Oak Bay firemen assisted the Saanich department.

More North Koreans Cross Naktong River

TOKYO (BUP)—U.S. troops, handicapped by the severance of their main supply line, battled desperately on the southern front today (Sunday) to protect the port of Pusan.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's midnight communique reported heavy fighting under way in the sector west of Miryang, a town on the vital railroad line that runs from Pusan to Taegu.

The Communists have established two road blocks on the American main supply line and the communique said these "continued to hamper vehicular and wire communication."

The Communists have thrown a bridgehead across the Naktong River and have succeeded in getting reinforcements across.

MacArthur's communique said a Communist prisoner of war claimed that the North Korean 16th, 17th and 18 Regiments of the Fourth Division had crossed the Naktong southwest of Changhyong. That is the area that the American 24th Division is defending.

"This is the first time I've ever had my main supply routes cut in more than 30 years of military service," Maj. Gen. John Church, commander of the 24th Division, said.

Chinju Yanks' Bright Spot

An 8th Army communique issued in Korea at 9:50 p.m. said the by-passed Communists "remained the only serious enemy activity on the southern flank" as the two army regiments linked up in hills overlooking Chinju.

The Marines were advancing on Sachon, 12 miles south of Chinju. The American offensive has so disorganized the enemy, a spokesman for Gen. Douglas MacArthur said, that the Reds may abandon Chinju and fall back 20 miles west of Hadong.

Front dispatches and the 8th Army communique reported these developments on other fronts:

POHANG — South Korean troops made small gains in a counter-attack near fallen Pohang on the east coast. The Communists withdrew from the perimeter of the American airfield six miles south of Pohang to regroup. Up to 10,000 Communists were expected to attack the airfield tonight or tomorrow.

TAEGU — 1st Cavalry Division troops killed half a Communist force of 300 which crossed to the east bank of the Naktong River 14 miles southwest of Taegu and the survivors were trying to withdraw. The Reds also made several other crossings of the Naktong in the Songdong area.

Sick Passenger Continues Fight

LONDON (CP)—A Canadian plane carrying 60 pilgrims from Rome was flying across the Atlantic today with a patient who declined to be taken off after the craft had made an emergency landing at London airport.

G. A. McGillem of Nappanee, Ind., suffered a heart attack soon after the plane had left Paris for Montreal. He refused to leave the Curtis-Reid chartered Skymaster.

Amboy Tragedy May Be Blamed On Ohio Firm

NEW YORK (AP)—A Coast Guard board said Saturday that the exact cause of last May's explosion at South Amboy, N.J., is unknown, but an Ohio munitions firm may have been at fault.

It said it found no evidence of sabotage but that it did not "exclude sabotage as a possible cause of the disaster."

Thirty-one persons were killed and more than 200 injured in the blast, that wrought havoc throughout the New Jersey north shore community.

Summing up its findings from a lengthy investigation, the Coast Guard Board of Inquiry said the Kigore Manufacturing Company of Westerville, O., "may have contributed to the cause of the casualty."

The company was the manufacturer of 356 tons of anti-tank and anti-personnel mines that went up in the holocaust last May 19 along with 45 tons of dynamite produced by another firm.

The munitions were being unloaded from railroad box cars to barges for transfer to an ocean freighter.

The board said the "most probable cause" of the blast was the "accidental detonation" of a case of anti-tank mines as a result of "loose packing" or "method of assembly."

Ontario Cricket Team Meets B.C.

WINNIPEG (CP)—Ontario's cricket team went out for lunch today with a score of 78 marked up against British Columbia in the Dominion cricket tournament championship match.

Batting first, Ontario lost four wickets for 19 runs but a nice partnership by Allan Percival and Jimmy Cameron added 34 runs before the latter was out legs-before-wicket for 25.

In the other game, with Manitoba and Alberta fighting it out to stay out of the cellar position in the tournament, Manitoba made up 80 runs with the loss of seven wickets.

Murder Charge In Drunken Slaying

LETHBRIDGE, Alta. (CP)—A charge of murder was read today in police court to William Arcand of no fixed address in connection with the drinking-bout slaying of John Cooper in a river-bottom home here last Oct. 5.

Police said Cooper was beaten with a "blunt instrument" in a brawl at his home. Arcand was arrested in Eureka, Calif., last week and brought here by R.C.M.P. last night.

No plea was taken when Arcand heard the charge in police court today and he was remanded to next Friday.
